

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!
As usual, my alarm clock pulled me out of bed at 7 sharp Tuesday morning. I jumped out of bed and hurried to the window, as I always do. I was delighted to see that Cadboro Bay was just as flat as a millstream, although it didn't look quite that warm.

Mom Chadwick was bustling around the kitchen while I dressed and I could smell wonderful things cooking.

I took my daily cold tablets (just an ounce of prevention) and stuck my head out the bedroom window for a couple of sniffs of that wonderful salt-water air. My bedroom overlooks the bay and the view at night, with the moonlight streaming over the water, is the perfect way to end a day.

About 8, Mom and I sat down to a breakfast fit for Royalty—French toast, just swimming in butter and honey, and a couple of cups of Mom's hot tea. I never drink coffee. Mom would disown me if she ever saw me drinking any and she's still the boss as far as I am concerned.

After breakfast I climbed on the scales and was pleased to see I am holding my own as far as weight is concerned. However, Mom, who eats the same meals that I do but misses out on the swimming, is becoming a little worried about my waist line. Oh well, pretty soon she'll start worrying about me and lose it all again. When I start swimming 10 and 12 miles a day, she walks twice that distance in the living room, just worrying about me.

After reading the mail and trying to answer some of it, I received a pleasant visit from a Vancouver sports writer and a Vancouver boxing promoter, a very gentlemanly fellow named Micky McGuire.

He wanted me to appear in a fight card (just as a guest, not as a main event) that he is promoting in Vancouver. Unfortunately I won't be able to make it but it would be quite a story to tell my boxing friends like Rocky Marciano, Max Baer and Archie Moore.

We just finished our talk when Jack Todd and his family appeared in the coaching boat, so I went in for my morning dip, swimming for an hour.

I am becoming more used to the cold water every day and felt fine when I came out of the bay and hopped into a hot tub. Mom had cooked up some hamburger and onions, my favorite meal, for lunch. I puttered around the house after lunch, just relaxing.

The afternoon swim, 2½ hours, was the longest yet but I didn't feel at all tired when I came out. Four weeks to go now.

Coach Archie has a heart of gold. He's given me the whole day off Friday so maybe I can catch up with all my unanswered mail.

Three-Gun Gertrude

A triple national title winner in U.S. pistol competition last Sunday, Mrs. Gertrude Backstrom of Hoquiam, Wash., is in Victoria to compete in the annual international pistol competition sponsored by Victoria City Police Revolver Club. There are 50 entries, including 13 from Washington and Oregon, a Vancouver team, and one from Vancouver. Two-day tourney opened today at Thetis Lake. Mrs. Backstrom holds the U.S. women's title for aggregate scores with three handguns, .22, .38 and .45 calibers. (Times photo.)

'Serious Trouble' Ahead If Rain, Heat Swell B.C. Rivers

Deputy Minister Evan Jones Inspects 'Soup-Like' Dikes on Fraser River

The Fraser Valley will be in serious trouble if hot weather or rain hits B.C. coastal areas the remainder of this week, deputy works minister Evan Jones warned today as the Fraser crept above 1948 flood levels.

HIGH WINDS POSTPONE WINNIE'S SWIM

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—High winds today forced Winnie Roach to postpone her attempt to swim the Catalina channel.

Winnie, 28-year-old mother from St. Thomas, Ont., was in her swimming suit awaiting the attempt but winds from 16 to 20 miles an hour failed to subside.

She reset her start for 1:45 a.m. on Thursday.

Her goal is to beat Florence Chadwick's record of 13 hours and 47 minutes for the swim of about 22 miles from Santa Catalina Island to the mainland.

Ontario Cyclist Sets B.E.G. Trials Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pat Murphy, of Delhi, Ont., set his fourth record at the Canadian cycles championship here today when he won the grueling, 100-kilometre road race in 2:48:25.

The old mark was 2:53:29. Murphy, 23, also set records in the 4,000-metre pursuit race and the 10 and 25-mile races during the meet.

He took the marathon from the field of 29 riders in a down-to-the-wire dash with Alan Cole, of Brantford, Ont., which left the race in doubt until about a block from the finish line. He and Cole had swapped the lead several times in the latter stages of the race.

Lorne Atkinson, veteran Canadian bicycle racer, was taken to hospital here "badly cut up" following a four-bike collision in the fourth lap of the 100-kilometre marathon. Atkinson was involved in a collision with Bill Kasting and Mickey Zayetz, both of Edmonton, and Brian Henderson of Vancouver. The other three continued the race.

Behind the leaders came Pete Allan of Toronto; Wilfred Chevrier of Montreal; Dave Smith, Toronto; Eric Fellowes, Toronto; Malcolm Potts, Victoria; Claire Bonner, Vancouver; Gaston Langlois, Montreal; Sandy Peden, Victoria; Jim Pascoe, Toronto. Six of the 15 that were forced out dropped in the last two laps as the leaders turned on a heart-tearing pace.

Bus Fare Boost Board's Baby

'Leave It to the Commission' Reaction of Civic Leaders

Civic and municipal leaders expressed little surprise today at B.C. Electric's application for an increase in bus fares.

There was no indication of any organized protest, but rather a willingness to let the merits of the company's case be determined by the Public Utilities Commission.

B.C. Electric announced Tuesday afternoon its intention to ask for higher bus fares for both its mainland and Vancouver Island transportation systems.

In Victoria it is asking that the present 10-cent fare be boosted to 13.

Though some claimed the increase would work a hardship, the general attitude was that the price rise was the natural way to meet mounting deficits.

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay; Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich and Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, were in general agreement that the Public Utilities Commission was the proper authority to investigate and decide on the company's request.

All three said municipal councils had no facilities for probing into the financial aspects of the case.

VARYING VIEWS:

City aldermen showed varying views. Here are some of their comments:

Ald. Margaret Christie: "I think the fares are high enough. I don't think the people can really afford to pay more, especially the older people living on fixed incomes who have to use the buses because they can't walk."

Ald. Arthur Dowell: "As far as I'm concerned the application for an increase was anticipated when the men got that last increase. A company can't continue to lose money. It either has to close down or pass it on. Whether the company is justified in asking for this much will be up to the Public Utilities Commission to determine. I will suggest the city be represented at the PUC hearings. I can't see that we can do much more. With respect to the suggestion that the city take over the business, I hope that never happens."

Ald. Millard Mooney: "The cost of business is leveling off and things are going to be tougher. I will oppose this increase. Fares are high enough now. The price of anything that costs the public money has to be kept down. We've got to hold the line. That's been my policy and still is. People won't be able to ride on the buses if the fare goes up."

Ald. Frank Mulliner: said the company was compelled to make the application for higher fares to offset wage increases won by its employees. At the same time, he took the company to task for giving wage increases "apparently without very much resistance."

"They're not being trying to hold the line," he said. "They've just said 'yes, yes, yes.' They've made no stand. They apparently decided to just pass the cross along. If they don't hold the line, we're going to have inevitable chaos."

Ald. Robert Macmillan: "No body likes an increase, but I would rather see an increase in fares than have the gas and electric services subsidize the transportation service any more. We're already paying too much for gas and electricity in order to keep the transportation system going. And I'm dead set

FARMERS READY TO MARCH ON OTTAWA

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Farmers' Union in a statement issued today said it is prepared to organize a mass march on Ottawa if necessary to awaken the nation to the plight of western agriculture.

Impending collapse of the entire economy unless price equalization and assistance are available to western farmers is regarded "as a certainty by top union officials," the statement said. The union planned to call an emergency conference at Ottawa to deal with the mounting glut of wheat on the Prairies.

President Unalterably Opposed

Statement Clarifies American Position

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower said today he is completely and unalterably opposed to the admission of Communist China to the United Nations under present conditions.

He made this statement at his weekly press conference in which he also said he had not yet reached any decision on whether the United States should withdraw from the United Nations if the Communist Chinese regime was brought in.

The president was asked to give his views on the admission of China in view of the considerable opposition the prospect had raised in Congress.

Eisenhower said he was completely and unalterably opposed under the present situation to the admission of Communist China to the world body.

He gave his personal opinion that 95 per cent of the people of the United States took the same stand.

MORAL QUESTION

The president said there was a moral question involved. The United Nations was not established primarily as a super government, he said, but it was an attempt to marshal the moral strength of the world to preserve peace and make certain that quarrels were composed through decent respect for justice, fairness and right.

Now today, the president said, Communist China had entered into negotiations at Geneva but instead of taking a conciliatory attitude it was demanding the repudiation of the United Nations' position.

Eisenhower said emphatically that Communist China was today at war with the United Nations; they had been declared aggressors by the United Nations General Assembly and that situation had never been changed.

In such situations the United States government could not possibly agree to the admission of the Communist Chinese to the United Nations.

A reporter asked if the United States would withdraw from the United Nations if the Chinese were admitted.

MUCH STUDY

Eisenhower said the United States had gone into the United Nations under treaty forms and if the country ever reached the point where it wanted to repudiate solemn treaty obligations it must do so only after the most careful and deliberate study of all the consequences.

The president was asked if he opposed any amendment to the foreign aid bill or other legislation which would automatically take the United States out of the United Nations once Communist China became a member.

He replied that the United States ought not to prejudice cases and should deal with problems as they arose.

He doubted if any such amendment to the foreign aid bill would be seriously considered.

EVERY WEAPON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said today he is convinced the Eisenhower administration will use every weapon at its command to keep Communist China out of the United Nations.

But the Californian would not claim administration backing—at least for the present—for his demand that the United States pull out of the UN if Red China is seated. An effort to bring the Peiping regime into the world organization may be made this fall.

BRITISH REACTION MOUNTS

First U.K. Abstention On Chiang Shows Split

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Britain today split with the United States on a vote supporting Nationalist China's participation in the United Nations.

The 12-nation trusteeship council voted, however, 9 to 3 with Britain abstaining, to approve the report of its credentials committee recognizing Nationalist China's seat in the group. Russia and India voted no.

It was the first time in a major UN body that the British had not voted for Nationalist China.

Churchill Will Report on Talks Monday

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill will make a statement Monday in the House of Commons on his Washington conference with President Eisenhower and also will report on his visit to Ottawa, Capt. Harry Crookshank, leader of the House, announced today.

Churchill plunged back into the current of British politics with a full-scale cabinet meeting.

Churchill underlined the importance of today's meeting by calling in the chiefs of the armed services and the three government service ministers.

Ike No Longer Speaks for U.S. Says Guardian

MANCHESTER (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says today that President Eisenhower's thinking now is being obscured and that Republican leaders in the United States Congress have almost closed the door on "intelligent policies either in Europe or in Asia."

"President Eisenhower no longer speaks for the United States," the Liberal newspaper says. "To conduct his foreign policy he must secure money and approval from Congress—and the Republican leaders in Congress are adamant against the kind of politics Sir Winston Churchill must have tried to persuade the president to accept."

If Eisenhower "accepts the view of his congressional leaders or by inaction leaves them to shape American policy, then there is little likelihood that Britain can continue to share a common policy with the United States," the paper says.

"The divergence opens appalling possibilities—among them the dissolution of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—but it has to be faced."

'Would Be Folly' to Admit Red China to U.N.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Express today declared "it would be folly" to admit Communist China to the United Nations.

"Already the United Nations organization has provided a magnificent platform for the Russians," it asserted.

"They have made full use of it, to bamboozle the public, divide the democratic states, stirring up distrust and even hatred among them and blunting the purpose of their leaders," The Express said.

"But if China too were represented then an immense reinforcement would be brought to the forces of disorder."

"Having suffered and endured all these injuries from the Russians," the paper asked, "can any British statesman consider doubling the mischief-making capacity of the UN by opening the door to malicious opportunity to the Chinese?"

Cease-Fire Hinges On 'Hurry-Up' Talks

Mendes-France Will Lead All-out Drive For Indo-China Peace at Geneva Next Week

GENEVA (UP)—Foreign ministers of the East and West headed back to Geneva today for a "hurry-up" session of the dormant Far Eastern conference, which may decide Indo-China's fate in the next 10 days.

Pierre Mendes-France, French premier, who won his office on a pledge to obtain a cease-fire by July 20 or resign from office, will join the conference for the first time and lead the all-out drive to end the Indo-China shooting war.

Other top diplomats from both sides of the Iron Curtain either were en route back to Geneva or making their plans to arrive not later than Monday.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is scheduled to return here from Moscow late today for the crucial conference attempts to hammer out a cease-fire agreement.

Red China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai will return from Peiping Thursday. Soviet ambassador to Britain, Jacob Malik, called upon British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London Tuesday night to discuss the new, speed-up phase of the conference, and British sources said Eden would return to Geneva this week-end.

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—Communist troops have begun shelling Hung Yen, last French held city in the Red River Delta south of Hanoi.

69,481 Persons Jam Calgary Stampede Stands for Record

CALGARY (CP)—An all-time second day attendance record was set Tuesday as 69,481 persons crowded past the turnstiles at the 69th Calgary exhibition and stampede. Previous high mark for a Tuesday was back in 1949, when 66,943 visitors entered the grounds—3,990 less than this year.

Attendance for the first two days this year is now just 263 behind last year when the stampede had the greatest attendance in its history. Given continued good weather, officials are hopeful of setting a new mark this year.

The weather couldn't have been better for the big show Tuesday. Throngs of merry-makers crowded downtown streets in the morning for street dancing, band music and western songs, and free flapjacks and bacon from the chuckwagons—all with the mercury hovering around the 72 mark.

Tuesday night was the big moment for a native Alberta

$100,000 Timepieces Clock B.E.G.

QUEBEC (CP)—Three Swiss experts are giving the final once-over here to $100,000 worth of timepieces to be used at the forthcoming British Empire Games at Vancouver.

The 250 instruments, ranging from simple stop watches to complex electronic devices, arrived in Quebec Monday from Biennet, Switzerland, after a 51-day accuracy test at the Swiss observatory of Neuchâtel.

Ken Hatch, president of Omega House in Canada, said the instruments made the Atlantic crossing undamaged and every instrument reacted with accuracy to one-tenth of a second during this week's tests.

They will be shipped to Vancouver Monday or Tuesday of next week in care of the three Swiss technicians. Three other experts from Switzerland already are in Vancouver training the games' 65 official timekeepers.

FUN IN SOOKE HILLS CAMP STARTS SOON FOR 70 LADS

Between 65 and 70 young boys will leave Victoria next Monday for the opening of YMCA Camp Thunderbird at Glintz Lake near Saseenos.

A total of 140 boys have registered for the summer camp periods from one to five weeks' length and more are expected.

Boys who attend the camp, situated beside Glintz Lake, 1,000 feet up in the Sooke Hills, will receive supervised instruction in swimming, archery, first aid, campcraft, weaving and other handicrafts. A full sports program will be part of regular camp life.

Hiking and fishing will play a major role in the camp curricula.

The camp has well-equipped cabins, a large dining hall and a new recreation building built last year by the "Y" Mens' Club.

Canadian Imports Decline To Lowest in Four Years

(From BUP and CP Dispatches)

OTTAWA—Canada's imports, $348,500,000, as compared with $391,800,000 last April. Prices were slightly higher this April, but by volume, imports dropped almost 13 per cent. Total imports in the January-April period this year were $1,274,300,000 compared with $1,389,700,000.

Imports for the first four months of this year dropped 8 per cent from a year ago.

U.S. Rejects Czech 'Deal' For Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States will reject Czechoslovakia's "unprincipled" deal for return of seven American soldiers seized by Czech border guards, officials said today.

The state department itself said only that it is studying the case closely to decide what, if any, action is warranted.

"We are assembling all the facts and will decide on the basis of the information gathered what action to take," a department spokesman said.

The seven GIs—a captain and six enlisted men—strayed across the Iron Curtain during a fourth of July jaunt. The Czechs immediately took them into custody.

Czech border guards later told German guards that the seven would be released immediately if three Czechs who fled to the west are returned.

Headless Bodies Found in N.B.

GLASSVILLE, N.B. (CP)—New Brunswick pathologist R. H. MacKeen testified Tuesday that the bodies of an 18-year-old Indian girl and her fiancé were headless when a professional guide stumbled on them near here two weeks ago.

Dr. MacKeen summed up the inconclusive medical findings at a coroner's inquest into the deaths of sporting guide Douglas Grant, 25, and Malicee Indian girl Madeleine Polches who lived on an Indian reservation near Woodstock.

The jury returned an open verdict which left the cause of death undecided but attached a recommendation for further investigation.

Indications were then that Grant and the girl had been dead about a week when the bodies were found June 25.

Fire Licks Door As 88-Year-Old Naps on Couch

Passers-by Rouse Endangered Pair

Fire reached the back door of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Dempsey's 3319 Douglas Street home Tuesday night before passing friends told them their woodshed-workshop was being gutted by flames a scant three feet away.

The elderly couple, both 88, were asleep when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baxter, 831 Shamrock, drove past the house at 9:15 p.m. and saw flames licking the house from the nearby shed, which firemen said was a total loss.

They rushed into the house to find Mr. Dempsey having a nap on the kitchen sofa, and Mrs. Dempsey completely unaware that the house was in danger.

By then, Saanich fire department had been called by a neighbor, and firemen had the blaze under control in 20 minutes. There was no damage to the brick house.

The Dempseys have lived here 29 years and never before had a fire, said Mrs. Dempsey.

Firemen were unable to say what caused the blaze.

A son, George Angus Dempsey, who also resides at the address, was out for the evening.

7-Year-Old Baltimore Girl Brutally Slain

Police, Dogs Hunt Murderer

MIAMI (UP)—A brutal kidnapper snatched the seven-year-old daughter of a prominent Maryland attorney and politician from her grandparents' home here today and strangled her in a vicious sexual assault.

Police found the nearly nude body of Judith Ann Roberts in a clump of bushes at an intersection of residential streets in the southeast section of the city. Her hands were bound behind her with a hemp rope, her mouth trussed with a handkerchief, and her body and throat splattered with bruises.

A manhunt with bloodhounds was organized immediately to search for the murderer. An automobile believed used by her attacker was found near the young, blonde child's body. It was believed the child was kidnapped from her bed shortly after midnight. She was wearing only a nightgown.

Judith and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Roberts of Baltimore, Md., had come here Sunday to visit Mrs. Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg. Roberts is a member of a prominent Baltimore law firm and was recently a candidate for the Maryland house of delegates.

The Roberts have two other children, James, 15, and Betty, 3.

REDS FIRE ON GROUNDED UN BOAT

MUNSAN, Korea (UP)—Communist guns fired on a United Nations patrol boat in the Korean demilitarized zone today and the UN lodged an immediate complaint that the Reds violated the armistice.

The United Nations command said the attack occurred when the civil police patrol boat ran aground near a small island in the Han River.

The boat was one of those authorized to be in the demilitarized zone to police the armistice.

Seaway Plans Continue at Talks Stage

OTTAWA (RUP)—A lot of spadework will be done on paper before sod is turned on a joint Canadian-United States development of St. Lawrence Seaway navigation projects.

The first tentative scoops on the paper level were completed Tuesday when officials of the two countries completed eight hours' talks here. More talks will come before any excavation takes place, officials who were at the meetings in the Parliament Buildings said.

The "strictly exploratory" talks between newly-appointed seaway officials of the two countries achieved their objective in completing an agenda for a more important meeting to be held later—probably in about two weeks.

It was assumed the meeting would be held in Ottawa.

A source close to the talks said it was possible one or two preliminary meetings might be necessary before a ministerial joint conference on U.S.-Canadian co-operation on the St. Lawrence navigation job could be held.

Gold Bar Thief Sought In Vancouver

From RUP and AP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—Police in British Columbia were on the lookout today for a man believed to be involved in the theft last week-end of two gold bars worth $50,000 from the Consolidated Discovery Mine at Yellowknife, N.W.T.

The object of a province-wide search, Anthony Gregson, 29, was believed to be heading for Vancouver.

Gregson, an employee of the mine, vanished at the same time the gold bars did. Police said the gold was missed July 5.

The gold was replaced by bricks of lead.

One gold brick weighed 50 pounds, the other more than 70 pounds.

'HONEST JOHNS' READY FOR USE IN EUROPE

BERLIN (UP)—Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens said today American forces in Europe soon will have two new supersonic guided missiles equipped to carry atomic warheads.

The army secretary, winding up a six-day field tour of Seventh Army units, disclosed that units in the United States now are being trained in using the "corporals" and "honest Johns," as the missiles and rockets are called.

Chief Joseph's Big Dam

THE UNITED STATES ARMY recently called for tenders on generators needed at the Chief Joseph Dam, on the Columbia River. The American Westinghouse Company bid $2,180,714, the English Electric Company, $1,976,428. By accepting the low British bid the American taxpayers would have saved $204,286, plus the tariffs which the British firm would have paid on its product—a total saving of $424,286. But the higher American tender was accepted.

Thus does the U.S. Army—of which he is Commander-in-Chief—make a mock of President Eisenhower's policy of expanded and fair international trade. When the chips are down and the tenders in, an American firm gets the business at heavy cost to the taxpayers and heavy damage to British business. No wonder the British Government is making an official protest to Washington.

It is explained officially that the contracts awarded by the Army must be regarded as an "operational" and not a "policy" matter. The Government, therefore, cannot be held responsible for this notable breach of its declared principles.

These fine distinctions will not impress the British or other foreign peoples. All they know is that when they offer relatively cheap goods, when they seek American dollars which they would use to buy American goods, their offer is rejected. The protectionists of the United States have thus won a notable victory.

One item of business is perhaps not very important in itself. It should be weighed against the United States' huge current imports and its lavish foreign aid. But international politics can never be reckoned in figures alone. They are always influenced much more by symbols, and the case of the Chief Joseph Dam is a gaudy and depressing symbol which will be noted all over the world.

Perhaps unfairly it will be regarded everywhere as a test in which the Eisenhower Government has betrayed its own policies. Usually those policies have been frustrated by the Republican protectionists of the Congress whose real quarrel is with their own leader. In this case, however, the Government itself is alone responsible for, through the Army, it awarded the contract to a high bidder for the sole purpose of barring British goods.

The danger of such finagling is obvious. It will stimulate retaliation in foreign nations. It will undermine the world's confidence in the President's ability to revise American tariffs, as he has failed to do in the present Congress, as he has promised to do in the Congress to be elected next November.

These fears, of course, will be exploited to the limit by protectionists in foreign countries who will use them as an argument for restraining trade and thus impoverishing the free world at large. The case of the Chief Joseph Dam, in fact, was made to order for the communists' propagandists and their theory that the free nations will finally break down in commercial quarrels.

Much larger matters of the same sort are now on the President's desk. He has exercised wisdom and courage in rejecting the recommendation of the tariff commission to increase the duty on ground fish fillets imported from Canada and other countries. He has yet to rule on the application of American industries for restrictions on the import of metals.

Were he to yield on the latter—an issue involving huge annual business to Canada—he would certainly do serious damage to Canadian-American economic relations.

Understandably he may not have known that his Army was accepting a high tender and rejecting one much lower, for he is a very busy man and cannot possibly keep in touch with all departments of the Government. He must settle the test of metals for himself. His action on the fish import recommendation provides encouragement. A similar course on metals would free this country of deep anxiety.

Helping the Potential Teacher

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION has taken constructive and enlightened action in attempting to encourage suitable young people to enter the teaching profession.

Announcement of the $100,000 revolving loan fund, from which candidates in rural areas could, on approval, draw money to help finance their training for the profession has all the appearances of good business.

This province needs more teachers. It needs more highly skilled teachers and it needs an incentive to attract the best possible material into the calling.

At present many high school graduates and those with even higher academic education find it difficult to lay out the money required to carry them through teacher training courses. The fund promises to make provision for such individuals if they measure up to required standards.

Some such assistance has been an obvious need. The simple arithmetic of loss and replacement illustrates that fact. British Columbia, according to official figures, requires approximately 1,400 teachers a year to fill vacancies caused by retirement, withdrawal from the profession for other reasons, and by the present insatiable demands of mounting school population. The Normal Schools of Victoria and Vancouver this year turned out only 550 graduates. The latter total falls far short of requirements.

It is possible, of course, to re-engage older teachers and to draw back into the staff pool some who have left following marriage. At the same time the demand is such that it has been necessary to use a certain number of people who lack adequate certification and ability.

The loan scheme should help recruitment of new members to a substantial degree. It is encouraging, moreover, to note that it will permit a degree of selection on the part of the authorities who appear determined not merely to fill vacancies, but to improve standards. In that effort they will have the unequalled support of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Potential teachers will find in the plan an avenue of assistance not previously open to them through the Dominion-Provincial bursary loan scheme. They are not given a cash donation. They are offered a loan. That places a responsibility on them. It is a responsibility which those suitable for the profession should be willing to assume.

Arms for Japan

WHEN GENERAL MACARTHUR brought his tablets of stone out of the Japanese mountains and built a new constitution for the conquered nation it forbade Japan to build any military power. The Japanese were to remain unarmed forever. But on July 1 of this year rearmament began, at the demand of the American Government and against the wishes of many if not most Japanese voters.

The fact was little noted at the time but before the recent riots in the Japanese Diet it had approved a rearmament policy, as urged by the United States.

Of course this legislation flatly contradicted the basic provisions of the MacArthur constitution but this offered no serious legal difficulties. The Japanese lawyers had conveniently discovered, between the lines of that document, an interesting loophole. Japan, they said, was constitutionally entitled to arm itself, provided it did not join any foreign alliance or send its forces outside the country.

This little piece of sophistry did not disguise Japan's actual alliance with the United States, already in full operation.

The United States does not like the rearmament of Japan any better than the Japanese people who must pay for it. But the facts of life in this imperfect world seldom fit the theories. One of the cardinal facts is that the defence of Japan is vital to the defence of the North American continent and of the free world at large. The Japanese islands are the West's only sure bastion of strength in the north Pacific. Quite rightly, the United States feels that the Japanese people must do what they can for their own safety. It will not be much for the present but at least a start has been made.

Under the new legislation strong precautions are taken against the revival of the old Japanese military power, which usually dominated pre-war governments and plunged the nation into its suicidal adventures.

No longer will the armed services be virtually outside civilian control. The prime minister will be commander-in-chief and the defense establishment will be dominated by the cabinet. Moreover, the old firebrands of the army and navy, the pre-war officer group, have been carefully excluded from the new general staff. In any case, Japan simply cannot afford large military expenditures when it is struggling for economic survival.

IF I were you, I'd try to get over yonder to Vancouver for some of the events at the Empire Games, three or four weeks from now. (The actual dates, as you probably know, are July 30-August 7, with the competition starting on July 31. July 30 is the opening ceremony, which is said to be very colorful and impressive.)

When I say "if I were you," I realize I am being silly; if I were somebody else I would no longer be doing what I am doing now. What I really mean, of course, is "if you were me, you would" etc.

I suppose the track and field events will be the most popular. They will be held in the big new stadium in Hastings Park.

AND by the way, not all the finals are on the last day. Not by any means. For example, on the Thursday you can see the finals of the 220 yards, both men and women, the finals of the shorter hurdles, the shot put, the hop-step-and-jump, the eliminations for the mile and the quarter-mile, and a couple of other items. Each of the four days will be good.

The new stadium hasn't been named yet... not when these words are written, anyhow. There is some sort of competition going on. It will become the property of the Pacific National Exhibition after the Games, since it stands in the Fair Grounds. The PNE, in its haste, decided to call the stadium the PNE Stadium or the PNE Bowl. I forget which. This notion was greeted with loud booing. I am happy to say. The letters PNE are ugly enough, even when they don't mean Pacific National Exhibition. They are the beginning, and indeed the worst part, of such things as pneumonia and the pneumatic drill. It is true that ancient Athens had a sort of open-air meeting place called the Pnyx... which not only suggests PNE but gets in the X sound of Exhibition. But I still say nix to the whole thing. Or nyx.

MOST of the public demand is for such names as Evergreen Bowl or Totem Bowl. Vancouver isn't famous for its totem poles, and any evergreeness or evergreenery or eververdence it may possess (in between snowstorms and forest fires and logging operations on Hollyburn Ridge) is shared with northern California to the Aleutians. And any cuteness in calling a stadium a bowl has now evaporated. However, the word "stadium" itself simply means a Roman furlong, or a track for foot-races of about a furlong. So you might as well call the amphitheatre a bowl. Come, landlord, fill the flowing bowl.

There are, of course, all sorts of things to see besides the track and field events. The rowing (on August 3 and 4) will be a longish way from Vancouver, on the Vedder Canal, perhaps 50 miles from town. But all the other events will be in town... the cycling, boxing, wrestling, fencing, lawn bowls, weight-lifting, swimming and diving.

SOME of those events I have listed may be tempting only to enthusiasts. But anyone who hasn't seen first-rate amateur boxing might be pleasantly surprised by its appeal, and by its difference from the slow-moving professional stuff. The boxing is on August 4, 5 and 6, with the finals of all weights on the 6th, the Friday night, at slightly higher prices. The boxing will be in the Forum, on the PNE grounds.

In some ways the swimming and diving will be the most attractive spectacle. There will be six afternoons of it (two without diving) at the magnificent new Empire Pool on the UBC campus. (The pool will later be given to UBC.) Many travellers think the pool the finest they have ever seen. And many more travellers have long declared UBC to have the finest situation of any campus in the world.

There might be some disagreement here from (let us say) the University of Grenoble, in the French Alps. But there is no argument about the view from Point Grey being breath-taking, especially towards Howe Sound. You might be interested, too, to see how the university has grown since you saw it last. It is your own investment, and one of your wisest ones.

THE pool, by the way, is an open-air one... for the present, at least. I can think of few pleasanter ways of spending an afternoon in early August than to sit outdoors at Point Grey, with the Coast Range mountains looking better than anything in the history of Chinese painting. And if the Empire's finest swimmers and divers are thrown into the bargain as well as into the pool, so much the better.

From what I have observed, Vancouver has put a great deal of money and hard work and intelligent planning into the Games. The first two things aren't much good without the third. There is also the right sort of enthusiasm, with neither hysteria nor indifference. It is very pleasing that the Duke of Edinburgh and Lord Alexander will be there as added attractions. Not to mention Lady and Bannister, who ran those miles.

BUT most of the chaps I've spoken to look forward to the Games as a whole, and not just for a glimpse of these very welcome star-turns. And for once, I have not heard a single man dreading the big crowd as a big nuisance. Call that nothing? I once got out of Kelowna in a hurry in order to miss its famous Regatta. I shall not treat Vancouver like that between July 30 and August 7.

Man With a Reputation

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

AS the Congress goes into the home stretch this month, it is already clear that this melancholy session has ruined some reputations, severely damaged a good many others, and really made only one. The man to make a serious reputation this year is Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

The professional investigators may be better known to their television audience than the Senate minority leader, but the big, tough, ambitious, long-headed, energetic and enormously hard-working Johnson has been saluted by Harry F. Byrd of Virginia as "the best leader I've seen in the Senate." And that is good enough for the man from Texas.

Johnson is, interesting in several different ways. For one thing, by his work, he illustrates all too clearly the fullness of President Eisenhower's bad luck with his own party.

If the Republican performance in Congress even slightly resembled the Democratic performance, as organized and directed by Johnson and wily, courageous Sam Rayburn, the Eisenhower administration would already have the kind of coherent, powerful record of accomplishment that its leadership deserves.

RESCUED EISENHOWER

On at least two occasions in this session, where the President's policy happened to coincide with Democratic views, Johnson has stepped in to rescue Eisenhower from defeat by his own party on really major issues.

One such issue was public housing. The House Republicans gutted the provision of cheap housing for lower income groups. A considerable number of Senate Republicans were ready to defy the leadership and go along with their friends in the House. But Johnson organized his Democrats to give the President about what he wanted.

Another issue was foreign trade. It is not generally known, but the hard old chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Dan Reed, was actually playing with the idea of letting the reciprocal trade act altogether die this year, on the ground that his committee had no time to deal with it. Then one of Johnson's Democrats, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, suddenly offered the Clarence Randall trade program, including a three-year extension of reciprocal trade, as a Senate amendment to the tax bill.

This meant weeks of debate on the tax bill in the Senate, a probable Senate victory for the Randall program, and other unpleasantness for Representative Reed. With great haste, the one-year extension of reciprocal trade was reported and passed in the House. If the President had chosen to rally the Eisenhower Republicans in the Senate, they and Johnson's legion would have been able to transform the one-year extension into the bill the President really wanted.

DEMOCRAT OFFER

Johnson's intervention in these two issues was partly conviction, partly politics, of course. But it was not politics at all when Sam Rayburn, speaking for Johnson as well as himself, went to President Eisenhower some months ago to say that if there were hard and unpopular things to be done in the defense and foreign policy fields, the President could count on Democratic support.

Johnson and Rayburn are symbols indeed of the opportunities that the President has thus far neglected, to work with a large majority group of moderate men in both political parties, and to leave the anti-Eisenhower Republicans yowling and withering somewhere out in right field. It is an opportunity Eisenhower may yet take at the next session, if his present discontent with his own party in Congress continues unabated.

Lyndon Johnson is interesting, too, in the sense suggested by Sen. Byrd's characterization. Congressional leadership is one of the most important and least understood arts that make the wheels of the American government go round. It involves everything from the exact knowledge of which capital bureau beer joints are patronized by the Senators who like beer (when they have to be rallied for a vote), all the way to a truly surgical knowledge of that most complex of all subjects, Senatorial human nature.

Johnson's skill as a leader has been demonstrated during this session in an indisputable manner. From a purely technical standpoint, there have been few more astonishing feats in Senate history than Johnson's feat of inducing the most conservative southerners to vote solidly with the liberal northern Democrats, to send the Taft-Hartley act amendment back to committee. That one required Johnson's talking personally and at length to every single member of his party in the Senate.

UNITING PARTY

The unanimous Democratic vote on the Taft-Hartley amendment in turn revealed another aspect of Johnson's success—his success in uniting the two wings of his party, so that Sen. Walter F. George is now busily endorsing Sen. Hubert Humphrey for re-election. And the way the McCarthy issue has developed has also proven the astuteness of Johnson's political judgment (much criticized by the northerners as being unprincipled, which perhaps it was) in wanting to leave that issue to the Republicans.

Johnson is no knight in shining armor. He is an able, practical politician, who does not believe in demagoguing when the doors are closed, and serves his party's interests as well as his country's. But Johnson's objective, a moderate and united Democratic party, neither Dixiecrat nor New Dealish, is certainly not a contemptible objective. And in these days when the Congress has virtually abandoned legislating in favor of investigating, the emergence of a prime legislative chieftain of the traditional American pattern is a cheering event, even if he comes from among the Democrats instead of among the Republicans.

As Our Readers See It

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

Your editorial: "Does Government Always Know What Is Best?" on freedom of information and the press reprinted in the Vancouver News-Herald, interests me. This subject is vital to "We, the people!"

"We" are still shaking from the 'cold war' propaganda that very nearly ended in war—and our earth's destruction by "A" and "H" bombs. The press and radio must do their part in preventing repetition of this madness.

Mr. Hansell, in the House, speaking of the Aherbhart government's Press Act: "... The government claimed the right to correct that which was false by law."

Your editorial: "... moreover, all governments have a vested interest in twisting and sugar-coating the news to suit their own political convenience."

You published a letter in your "As Our Readers See It" columns on March 27, 1948, headed "A World Court."

World Courts taking the U.N. oath of office: "I take orders from no government... I will regulate my conduct with the interests of the United Nations only in view..." should be the "Guardians of Truth."

Next year, 1955, the U.N. Charter comes up for revision. Clearness of thought is needed for this vital event!

FLAG QUESTION

Mr. Keate, in his article of June 30, "Wanted: a Flag," bemoans the lack of a distinctive Canadian flag, while he propounds the solemn conviction that the world is falling to pieces before our eyes.

Well, if he, or any other man living can take credit for being born in this, or any other country; of Canadian, or any other nationality, I will go along with him. Could I be proud of saying "by the grace of God, I was not born Chinese, or Hindoo?" So "God is the Judge." Enquiry should be enlightening also. The Union Jack is the Union of Jack, or Jacob, and Christendom is within the Commonwealth of Israel, as will be noted in reading Galatians 3:29 in our Scriptures.

So why quibble about a flag, since it is becoming more apparent every day that we will soon be requiring the good Lord to prevent this world from becoming a blasted wreck, and us with it?

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

As one of our professors has written, "There is a sentiment abroad that capital punishment should be abolished... But to the law, and the testimony," (Isaiah 8:20), for instruction and guidance.

"Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." (Genesis 9:6.)

"He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death." (Exodus 21:12.)

"He that killeth, any man shall surely be put to death." (Leviticus 24:17.)

"Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death." (Numbers 25:30, 31.)

"All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." (Matthew 26:52; Revelation 13:10.)

The desire to abolish capital punishment is apparently on the increase, and it analyzed it will be seen to arise from an absence of belief in a life after death, so that death is looked upon as the total extinction of life, and thus the greatest of all calamities.

COME FROM BANFF?

As an ex-resident of Banff in the Canadian Rockies, I am interested in getting all other former residents of that mountain resort to form an association or club here in Victoria.

There are many former residents of Banff living here and elsewhere on this Island who, I feel sure would be interested in such a scheme.

Towards that objective I would therefore appreciate it if you would kindly publish this letter in your Letters to the Editor column.

EAST ASIA

After maintaining a sort of caretaker government in such places as South Africa, India, Palestine, Ireland and Canada, and after being in a sense jostled out, or persuaded to leave, the British are now asked to engage in a newer deal in East Asia.

The dire need for profitable employment has been responsible for many changes in practical government. That need is now present in all Asia. It was present in North America at the lifetime of President Washington, and a revolution was begun, resulting in several wars.

When slavery and poverty have been tolerably removed from human experience, a purpose of some kind will be seen. Perhaps a joint scheme of preservation. The British mood to go slow now that predicted warfare is again looming ahead, is understandable. The British political, commercial and banking system helped us to prosper over on this continent. And we need not forget the Puritanic ideals and privileges we inherited. That similar advantages may be gained by Chinese operating on their own plans is of course true.

PHILIP HOLLOWAY,

July 7, 1914 — Gurdit Singh and his fellow passengers in the Ss Komagata Maru at Vancouver have agreed to drop their fight for entry into Canada. The ship may leave July 11.

July 7, 1934 — Pedestrian traffic in the shopping district of Victoria has increased 20 to 30 per cent this season, it is shown by figures released by Assessment Commissioner Okell.

A Brilliant Teacher

MISS Jones was the brilliant woman who taught us English literature, and I'll be grateful to her all my life.

She took us, a bunch of pig-tailed lumpy adolescents, and forced us to find beauty in poems that our callow minds would otherwise have missed. By her drive and her determination, she made us appreciate the craftsmanship of Shakespeare's opening scenes, Milton's use of proper names, Bunyan's use of allegory. Into our thick heads she pounded a knowledge of alliteration, onomatopoeia, the effect of lazy, languid words, and the purpose of a crisp, brisk style. She made us avoid ugly repetitions of vowels, using as an example the "British railways' plaintive plea, "Please Keep Your Feet Off the Seat."

Ruth

Over essay writing, she was merciless. Spelling, punctuation and grammar had to be meticulously correct. Our thinking had to be clear, and redundancy was the unforgivable crime.

She taught us that facts must have chapter and verse to support them, references must be checked and double-checked for accuracy, and sources always acknowledged.

She refused to accept shoddy or pretentious work.

Once, I handed in an essay that I thought was clever. For several days I went round in a state of secret smugness. Then it came back, unmarked, and with a note attached, "Stop showing off your vocabulary." Miss Jones had written, "I haven't time to wade through this involved and tortured prose. Write this out again in simple sentences, and use words that even I can understand."

I cried a little in the cloakroom from shame and misery and hurt feelings. But I was angry, too. So angry that I rewrote the essay from start to finish and won rare, treasured words of praise.

"The British are a horse-doggy nation," this Englishwoman told us. "Describe them, therefore, in horse-doggy terms. As people tend to grow like the animals they love, the descriptions will be apt."

So we happily likened our classmate to emaciated greyhounds, chunky Sealhams, and colossal Clydesdales.

We were made to listen to the patterns of everyday speech so that we could catch the characteristic phrase and reproduce it with slight exaggeration. And because the school was set in a fairly isolated part of Sussex, we found our inspiration chiefly by watching the football games at a not too distant boys' school.

After the games, we'd trail back, giggling over such conversational gems as: "Ah! Ruggah!" he beamed, rubbing his plum-colored hands. "Capital game! Capital game!" Or, "Beautiful tackle! Beautiful tackle!" he shouted, as a grunting, hairy 200-pounder fell flat on his face in the mud.

It was cruel, of course, but magnificent training in observation and expression.

But our efforts always fell far short of the classics, according to Miss Jones. That should teach us humility, she said.

Miss Jones was all for humility. None of us had a natural gift for writing, she told us with devastating candour. But all of us could learn the mechanics of it.

We didn't like Miss Jones. She was too terrifying for that. But we admired and respected her, and we certainly learned from her.

I cannot understand why so many parents and teachers nowadays are so tender with the young. To my mind, they are being cruel in the name of kindness.

I thank my stars that I grew up in the rough old days before the Freudians got a grip on general education.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Cirrhosis of the Liver

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Many persons keep asking if any research is being done on cirrhosis of the liver, and I can say, "Yes, a tremendous amount is being done. Most of it is being done on hepatitis, or inflammation of the liver, which seems now to be the common forerunner of a cirrhosis. Until a few years ago most physicians thought of cirrhosis as being due mainly to chronic alcoholism. And yet, every pathologist (expert on diseased tissues) knows that most of the persons who die of cirrhosis were never heavy drinkers; in fact, many of them were either teetotalers or very modest drinkers.

Then came World War II, and suddenly, the physicians of our armed forces found that one of the commonest diseases of the soldiers and sailors was hepatitis, usually associated with jaundice.

In most cases this jaundice was mild and evidently of a type that has been known to man for ages under the name of infectious or epidemic jaundice. We physicians knew that this type of epidemic jaundice was usually a transient and fairly harmless disease which seldom left any residue. We knew of another type of jaundice, which sometimes went with a very severe and even fatal disease called "acute yellow atrophy of the liver."

The question soon was, why were so many soldiers and sailors becoming jaundiced? In former wars jaundice had not been much of a problem. Why was it a big problem in this war? Soon the doctors found that there were two types of virus causing the inflammations of the liver: one, probably the virus of ordinary infectious and epidemic jaundice, and the other a more dangerous one, which after a rather long period of incubation, produced sometimes a marked destruction of the liver, something like that of acute yellow atrophy.

CARRIED IN PLASMA

The important discovery was that this virus was being transmitted by transfused blood or injections of blood plasma, or even by puncture with a hypodermic needle which had not been sterilized long enough. It was soon found that the bad type of virus was very hard to kill. Immediately, big efforts were made to get it out of the blood plasma that was so commonly used in the military and naval hospitals. Because so many of the persons who so kindly gave their blood were carrying the virus, it was impossible to keep it out of the plasma collected by blood banks.

For a while, doctors thought they were getting rid of the virus by drying the plasma and exposing it to a certain radiation, but then came a batch of reports of jaundice after the use of plasma which showed that the method was not safe enough. Now, research workers are claiming that if the blood plasma is left long enough in liquid form at room temperature, the virus will die out. We now all hope that this is true.

While these studies were going forward, many more were being carried out to see what happens to the liver after it has suffered a bad attack of destructive hepatitis. Soon it was learned that in many cases the liver was largely destroyed. Then, somewhat like a lizard's tail, much of it was regenerated or built up from remnants left after the infection had quieted down.

The only trouble was that sometimes, as the liver was rebuilt, this was done so poorly that the new organ could not work very well. Conditions might be likened to those after a fire and explosion in a big apartment house, if then every resident got in his own carpenter, plumbers and electricians, and built an apartment just to suit himself. As a result, many of the water and waste pipes and electrical conduits would not connect up, and hence would not work.

BLOOD BACKS UP

In a liver that is built up in this unsystematic way, much of the blood which should flow through easily and in large amounts cannot find a way, and as a result, it backs up into the abdominal veins and dilates them. This may lead to the formation of much water in the abdomen. This is the situation in bad cases of cirrhosis of the liver. Cirrhosis means a hardening, and this hardening is due to the formation throughout the injured liver of innumerable partitions made of scar tissue.

What, then, can be done? Obviously, after a bad cirrhosis has developed, there isn't much that we physicians can hope to do. We cannot tear down the botched liver and rebuild one that is well-organized for its functions as a normal liver is.

For a while we physicians hoped that after the bad virus had struck and had nearly wiped out a liver, we could help the organ to rebuild well by supplying a good diet and perhaps some medicines. Unfortunately, after much research, it now looks doubtful if we have found any good treatment. The one hopeful point is that often if the patient can be kept alive during the acute phase of his illness, he will live on for years remarkably well, even when he hasn't much liver left.

SYNOPSIS—An intense storm moved northward off the B.C. coast Tuesday night bringing gale force winds of up to 70 miles an hour to the exposed northern coast.

The storm—the most active ever recorded at this time of year—is now moving into the northern Gulf of Alaska and winds will decrease slowly during the day.

Rain from the system was confined to the outer coast, although cloudiness has been general over the province. Cool air now moving in from the Pacific will bring scattered showers to western sections of the province for the next two days and some thunderstorm activity is looked for in the interior.

Temperatures will remain rather cool along the coast and quite warm in the eastern sections.

CANCER EXPERT'S WIFE SOLVES SMOKE PROBLEM

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—The Yale scientist who believes his research shows heavy cigarette smoking contributes to lung cancer and heart disease has converted his wife to a pipe.

"I'm not a confirmed pipe smoker yet," said Mrs. Edward Cuyler Hammond, whose husband is professor of biostatistics at Yale and director of statistical research for the American Cancer Society.

"I still smoke a few cigarettes a day," she added Tuesday at La Jolla Beach Club, where she and Hammond are vacationing. "but the pipe has helped me get down to about half a pack each day." She previously had smoked three packs a day.

"I wish I had the nerve to smoke my pipe in public," she said. "It might start a whole new trend."

Strike Idles U.S. A-Plant At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UP)—Some 3,000 CIO workers at the huge gaseous diffusion plant here today launched the first strike in the history of the nation's atomic weapons production.

Officials of the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers' Union said picket lines went up about the plant this morning.

Almost 1,000 other CIO production workers at gaseous diffusion facilities at Paducah, Ky., were expected to join the walkout.

The strike, which could possibly cripple the nation's production of atomic and hydrogen weapons got under way despite creation of a special board of inquiry by President Eisenhower in an effort to stave off the walkout.

Wife Lived in Fear of Death After Petrov Fled Embassy

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—Mrs. Evdokia Petrov today told an Australian spy probe commission that she lived in fear of death at the Russian embassy in Canberra for two weeks after her husband, Vladimir, quit from his spy chief post last April and renounced Communism.

Guards surrounded her day and night after she was taken to the embassy April 3, and a curtain of silence cut off news from the outside world and blocked her husband's pleas to join him, she said.

With tears in her eyes, the 40-year-old woman said she feared she might be murdered in the embassy if she showed any sign of "planning things."

No one was allowed to talk to her, she said, and a man and a woman guarded her 24 hours a day. She was allowed to read only one newspaper, and the embassy radio "went wrong" after Russian ambassador Nikolai Generalov told her Australians had "kidnapped" her husband.

FORCED TO WRITE
Generalov meanwhile, forced her to write a letter refusing to meet Petrov on the grounds she would only "fall into a trap." She complied after telling the ambassador "what I thought of him" but addressed Petrov by the name "Volodya" to show she was not writing of her own free will.

Mrs. Petrov opened her testimony with a claim that the embassy's second secretary, F.V. Kislitsin, was in charge of organizing a fifth column in Australia.

Little Boys Spend Night 100 Feet Up

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two scared little boys who had spent a night of cold and hunger perched atop a 100-foot bridge abutment were rescued Tuesday by a pair of veteran bridge painters who struggled for 2½ hours before they were successful.

The youngsters, Ronald, 8, and Billy Hughes, 6, had run away from home after the boys' mother locked them in their room for disobedience. Mrs. Sarah Hughes said that the boys "somehow snuck out."

Their rescuers, Regis Cusick and Bill McNally, finally climbed along a catwalk and then slid down to the pier with the aid of a rope.

The two painters strapped the youngsters into a boatwain's chair and slowly swung them into the waiting arms of a policeman.

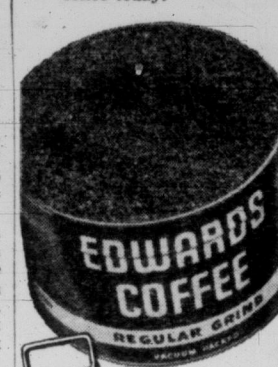

No one was able to learn how the boys got to their perch on the Westinghouse bridge, which is 265 feet high. "The boys, barefoot and covered with dirt, were none the worse for their experience."

BCE Traces Fare Hike to Transit Loss

3c Boost Asked for City Limits 2c on Other Local Bus Routes

A bus ride in Victoria will cost 13 cents if B.C. Electric Railway Co. is successful in its latest application for an upward revision in transit fares.

E. W. Arnott, vice-president, announced Tuesday afternoon his company had filed application with Victoria, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich for higher fares, and a reduction in service which will cut about 8 per cent off annual bus mileage.

Mr. Arnott said the Greater Victoria transit operation lost $373,547 in 1953. He said if present rates and services were maintained, the loss for 1954 would run to about $450,000. By increasing fares and decreasing service as outlined in the company's application, he felt $215,000 might be saved, leaving an operating deficit of about $235,000.

Company representatives have asked for a meeting with the councils of the four municipalities to explain the existing situation. It is possible the company men will meet Victoria City Council at its regular meeting Thursday.

Here are present and proposed urban fares for Greater Victoria:

Slack-Hour Cuts; No 'Passes'

Mileage reductions which the company proposes would be spread over the whole of the service. Bulk of the changes would take place during slack hours when travel is light, and on Sundays and holidays, Mr. Arnott said.

Mr. Arnott explained 83 per cent of the company's business was in Zone No. 1. With reference to the company's plan of eliminating the $2 weekly pass for persons riding in the inner area, he said demand for passes was light, about 300 being sold weekly.

B.C. Electric's application for higher fares here is concurrent with similar applications made in respect to its mainland operations. In Vancouver the company has asked that the present fare of 13 cents be increased to 15.

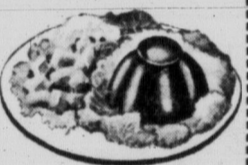

In all instances, the company's proposals will be subject to review by the Public Utilities Commission, which has the final say in such matters.

Mr. Arnott said: "Over-all, lower mainland and island urban transit operations are losing at the rate of more than $1,350,000 annually with no return on the very large investment in these properties which have to a very great extent been completely modernized in recent years to a point where the equipment and service being operated is of a standard second to none on the continent."

LONG DELAYED

"This application," he continued, "though warranted by rising transportation deficits for many months, has been postponed as long as possible. Since the last fare increase, which became effective April 6, 1952, the company has been faced with two sets of wage increases at-

Mr. Arnott said that even with the increased fares, both the mainland and Greater Victoria transit systems would fall short of covering operating expenses this year.

"Transit operations of the company, standing by themselves and recording substantial losses in every postwar year, could of themselves obviously not have raised a dollar toward modernization and expansion," Mr. Arnott said. "The work went forward only because of the strength of the electric service."

"The company as a whole cannot safely continue to carry losses of this size. The company's combined earnings on all its services are well below the allowed return of 6.5 per cent and will still be substantially below after the present fare increases.

"This is not a healthy situation for the company or for the public it serves."

within 400 miles

Shell-discovered additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline releases power formerly held captive by lead and carbon deposits.
TCP* is the greatest gasoline development in 31 years.

Acts so fast you'll think your engine's had a tune-up before you've finished your second tankful—within 400 miles

You can be almost certain that you are not getting the full power your car's engine was designed to deliver.

Up to 15% more engine power is released by Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

Less Than Two Tankfuls

So rapid is the action of Shell Premium with TCP that you'll feel your engine has had a tune-up before you've finished the second tankful.

TCP is a Shell-discovered additive carefully blended into Shell Premium Gasoline. There's nothing like it for keeping harmless the deposits that constantly build up in combustion chambers and on spark plugs. To keep your engine tuned as only TCP additive can do it, buy Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP every time you fill your tank. Remember, the only place you can get it is at Shell stations.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

No exceptions
This happens to all cars. In combustion chambers these deposits get red hot and pre-fire the fuel before the piston reaches its proper firing position. Power fights itself as a result of pre-ignition.

Power is also wasted when these deposits short-circuit spark plugs and cause misfiring. This misfiring and pre-ignition are the major cause of power loss in your car.

TCP Unleashes Captive Power
This Shell-discovered additive "fire-proofs" deposits in combustion chambers to stop pre-ignition. On spark plugs it makes the deposits non-conductive and prevents spark plug short-circuiting.

Esquimalt Bans Yorkshire Style Village; Plans May Be Re-Drawn

Plans to construct a replica of a Yorkshire village at Olde England Inn, Esquimalt, were turned down by Esquimalt Municipal Council because building by-laws did not conform, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said Tuesday.

Inn proprietor S. Lane probably will submit new plans at a later date.

Consideration of plans was made in council committee after application was made by Mrs. Lane and contractor Victor Leigh at council meeting a week ago.

Reeve Wurtele said, "According to by-laws you cannot put more than one dwelling on one property."

"There are cases," said the reeve, "where the property is large and special permission is granted to erect more than one unit, but in this case it could not be done."

He went on, "The only thing we could do would be to rezone the area into a commercial district, which would allow auto courts, but we don't agree to this."

Mr. Lane had emphasized earlier that it was not the intention to make an auto court out of the property.

"Council doesn't wish to be unpleasant, but we have to be fair to everyone and the people in the area don't want it zoned for auto courts," said the reeve.

Taxes Dodged On Log Prices MLA Charges

Gordon Gibson, Liberal MLA for Lilloet said Tuesday large integrated logging - sawmill firms are escaping the 10 per cent logging tax and cutting small loggers out of business by holding log price increases up at the sawmill level.

Mr. Gibson, former operator of a large logging firm, said that in the past few months log prices have climbed, but that the sawmill logging operators still pay their logging companies the same price for logs.

This has the effect of holding their associated or subsidiary logging firms at a fixed rate of profit, while sawmill profits, not subject to the 10 per cent tax, have increased in relation to the log price boost.

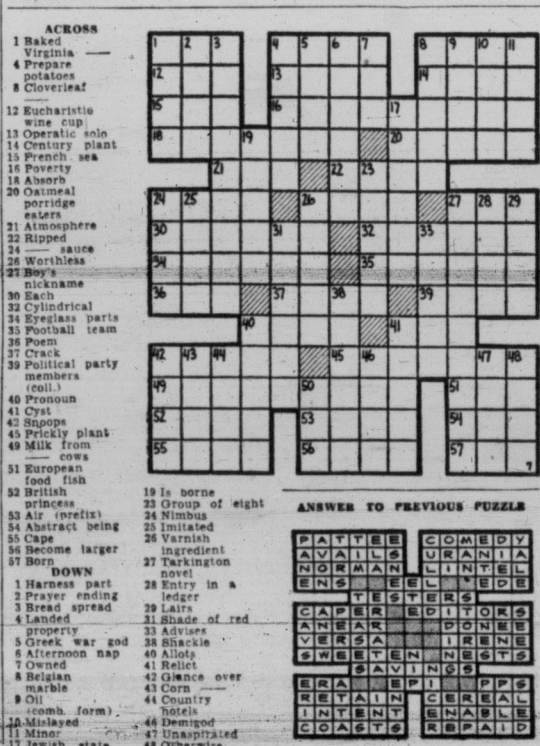

Small logging operators, who do not sell their logs to their own mills, still are getting the old price for logs, and are either breaking even, or going out of business, Mr. Gibson said.

Mr. Gibson said the large integrated firms are holding their logging firm profits at a bare minimum, by charging towing costs, booming costs, executives salaries and other items against the logging operation, in addition to keeping the log price down.

Giants Boost Lead

Trim Dodgers; Indians Hold Edge

One series, any major league manager will tell you, does not make a season, so why get so excited about the current set between the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

But going into tonight's second game of the three-game series, the Giants were four and one-half games in front of the Dodgers, and if they go on to sweep the series, Walter Alston and his operatives will be up against a mighty tough problem in their quest for a third straight pennant.

Consider the Dodgers' plight: 1. The pitching has been wobbly and what's worse, only Bob Milliken, one of the relievers, has been effective.

2. Their pinch hitters have been futile. In Tuesday night's 5-2 setback by the Giants, they loaded the bases with none out in the ninth only to have George Shuba and Rube Walker, two pinch hitters, go down ignominiously.

3. They can't seem to shake the injury jinx. Pee Wee Reese, Duke Snider, Roy Campanella and Jack Robinson among the first-liners have been having miseries.

SITTING PRETTY

The Giants, on the other hand, are sitting pretty. They have confidence. They've had fantastic good fortune with pinch hitters. When they're behind, they don't worry. With relief pitchers like Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom, who took over for Sal Maglie against the Dodgers Tuesday night in the ninth with none out and three men on base and got away unscathed, they have two firemen they can trust.

Two other National League games produced shutouts. Gerry Staley blanked the Cincinnati Reds for the St. Louis Cardinals 6-0, and Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies whitewashed the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0. In the other National League encounter, the Milwaukee Braves bombed the Chicago Cubs 14-3.

The Cleveland Indians held their three and one-half game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League. The Tribe got all their runs in the first inning and plastered the Baltimore Orioles 11-3 while the Yanks turned back Boston Red Sox 4-1.

All Honors to the Deserving

Two of Bill McColl's greatest admirers Tuesday as he took medal honors in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Pacific Northwest men's golf championships at Colwood Golf Club were John Boyd, left, of Portland, and Ralph Whaley, right, of Seattle. Boyd and Whaley were drawn with McColl when he scored his record-equaling 67 on Monday. Tuesday McColl finished with a 76 for a 36-hole score of 143. (Times photo by Strickland.)

Billy Took the Medal, But Ted Made the Shot

Bill McColl may have won the marbles at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club Tuesday, but all the excitement in the qualifying round of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament was centred about Ted Colgate in the playoff for the final qualifying spot.

McColl took medal honors with a 36-hole score of 143, firing a six over par 76, to go with his record equalling 67 of Monday.

Colgate won the 32nd berth in the championship in a four-man playoff with Vic Painter and George Andrews, both of Colwood, and Oscar Sund of Seattle when this group tied with medal scores of 159.

With one place open, the foursome teed off following completion of qualifying play. Sund and Painter were both in the rough off the first tee and Sund was soon eliminated when he failed to reach the green in three.

Painter was also short of the velvet with his second while Andrews and Colgate were both on. Painter missed a nine-foot for a par to fall by the wayside and Colgate and Andrews got down in four.

Colgate caught the cross trap on the left of the second fairway with his drive and Andrews was barely short of the bunker. It appeared like the end for Colgate when Andrews reached the green in two.

But gambling dangerously, as he obviously had to do, Colgate played probably the most brilliant shot of the tourney. Using a two iron out of the trap, he put his second 12 feet from the cup after clipping the edge of the bunker on the way out. Both had fours.

Colgate then took the playoff with a par four on the third as Andrews was short of the green with his second and missed a 12-foot putt for a par.

McColl Warm, But Cools Off

McColl missed a possible PPGA record when his game went sour after a brilliant start Tuesday. With a 67 Monday, McColl needed a 68 to equal Ken Black's tourney mark of 135.

He started off well enough with three birdies on the first four holes. He was still two under approaching the ninth, but there the trouble began.

He was out of bounds on the ninth to reach the turn in par. He had a bogey four on the 11th, a double bogey on the 12th, and was one over on 13. He was also one over on 16 and 18.

Young Norm Boden of Gorge

Vale, a junior, turned in the best round of the day, a par 70, to take runner-up to McColl with a 148, one stroke better than Erv Parent of Seattle, who had 75-74-149.

Most of the favorites qualified for match play beginning today, including former B.C. amateur king Bob Fleming, who had a pair of 76s for a 152 total. Bob Morrison had a 137 and Tommy Harris of Colwood, despite a seven on the par four 18th, finished with 158.

Two strong Seattle threats appear to be Bill Clintworth, former Seattle champ, who had a 76-75 for 151, and Dick Price of Longview with a similar total.

Ladies Stick Strictly to Script

Meanwhile in ladies' play at Uplands all favored players advanced with little trouble.

Gracie De Moss Smith of Corvallis, Ore., defeated Mrs. Martin Hunter of Portland, 6 and 4, and Mrs. Edna Ilandfeldt of Seattle defeated Peggy Harris of Victoria, 6 and 4.

Remaining Victorians include Mrs. Onaugh Painter, Margaret Mahoney, Mrs. H. G. Mearns, Mrs. H. J. McIntyre, Mrs. Derek Rhys-Jones.

Two of the tourney youngsters, 16-year-old Anne Quast of Everett and Ruth Jensen of Seattle scored convincing victories. Miss Quast defeated Mrs. G. A. Silburn of Victoria, 8 and 6, and 4, and Mrs. Jensen, 17 years of age, defeated Mrs. J. Lerback of Astoria, 7 and 5.

Tourament officials also announced a change in schedule. The ladies will continue to play at Uplands through Thursday, moving to Colwood Friday.

Tyees Start Over With Caps Here

Second-half Schedule Opens Tonight

Victoria Tyees, who failed to get far in the first half of the Western International Baseball League race, start over again tonight, with the commencement of the second half of league play.

The first-half champions, Vancouver Capilanos, are in town for a three-game series and as the Caps are obviously the team to beat, the Tyees can get a running start with a couple of wins.

Only catcher Milt Martin is on the disabled list and as he is expected to return to duty within the week, the club can be considered at full strength for the second-half battle.

Manager Don Pries' pitching selection for tonight is not known although Bill Bottler, Joe Nicholas and John Tierney appear to be the most likely choices as all are well rested.

Meanwhile the league plans a meeting at Yakima Saturday to iron out difficulties encountered in the tentative schedule released last week.

KIWANIS NIGHT

Tyee club general manager Reg Patterson has announced that Thursday will be Kiwanis Night at Athletic Park with the Kiwanis Jr. Safety Patrol sharing proceeds of the game. Members of the Kiwanis Club are currently selling tickets for the game and a big crowd is anticipated.

The talent-packed Capilanos breezed to the first-half championship and were 5 1/2 games in front of Yakima at the final Monday night. They're favored to repeat in the second half.

SALEM STRENGTHENED

As a step in that direction, the Salem Senators last week acquired outfielders Dick Greco and pitcher Bill Franks from the Capilanos. Vancouver manager Bill Brenner said he was willing to release the two to give more balance to the league.

Kinsmen in Fifth Win In L'il League Action

Power-laden Kinsmen posted their fifth straight second-half American League victory Tuesday night at Little League Park by whipping Elks, 9-4, in Little League action.

Scoring three runs in the second and sixth innings, one in the fourth and two in the fifth, Kinsmen pounded out 13 hits off two pitchers to gain the victory. The losers committed seven errors afield.

Murray Halkett and Dave Hill each clubbed three hits for Kinsmen. Dick Cotton connected for three of the losers' five hits.

League officials have extended an invitation to all parents of players in the Little League to attend a meeting Thursday night at 8 at Little League Park.

Line-score follows:

Kinsmen 9: 000 123—9 13—4
Elks 4: 011 020—4 8—7
Errors: Patterson (14) and Timbers, Halkett, Rindie (4) and Squires.

Neilson Tops Eagles' Tourney

Bill Neilson fired a 78 at Gorge Vale Golf Club recently to capture low gross for the third successive year in the annual Eagles golf tourney. He took possession of the Pat Paine Trophy.

Stan Douglas won low net with a 64 and Flet Truman and Ernie Locke deadlocked with 65s for the runner-up position. Runner-up to Neilson with an 86 was Henry Greb.

Tigers Score 14th Victory

Bill Munro fired seven goals Tuesday to pace undefeated Saanich Tigers to their 14th consecutive pee wee lacrosse league victory, a 15-7 decision over Fernwood at Stevenson Park.

In another league game Fair-oaks whipped Saanich Greens, 13-3.

BRITISH STARS EQUAL COURSE MARK IN OPEN

BIRKDALE, Eng. (UP)—Sam King, British Ryder Cup star, shot a 69 in the opening round of the British open golf championship today that equalled the course record for Birkdale.

Tom Spence, 42-year-old British pro whose doctor ordered him to give up golf four years ago because of stomach ulcers, shot a 34-35-69 to tie King for the lead among the early finishers.

PILS WHIP ROYALS

Rocks Host Sons Tonight

Pilseners 12, Royals 7
Victoria Shamrocks, not quite out of sight of the rest of the Intercity Lacrosse League teams, but just about, will be out to stretch their lead to a thumping 12 points tonight.

Rocks tonight take on the unpredictable Nanaimo Native Sons at Memorial Arena. The Irish lost two points of their lead Tuesday night when Vancouver Pils waxed New Westminster Royals, 11-7. However, they can reclaim that two-point dividend by cashing in against the Sons tonight.

With the season more than half over, a 12-point lead would make mighty smooth sailing over the shank of the schedule. As it always seems to happen when they meet Nanaimo, Victoria will be without two of their more rugged types tonight. Big Tommy Druce is still on holidays and Larry Booth is still nursing an irksome leg injury.

Al Gill will be in Booth's spot on the first line, in company with Archie Browning and Whitey Severson. The second line alone will be intact, with Jackie Northup, Norm Baker and Jack Bionda, league-leading scorer. The third unit will be made up of Bill Bamford, Jack Sibbald and Harry Irvin.

Defensesman in front of George Johnston will be Nip O'Hearn, Jack Thompson, Arnie Ferguson and Bob Monaghan. Fred Aspin led the way to Pilseners' victory Tuesday night, firing in three goals to make it seven in two straight games.

Pilseners were ahead all the way but sewed it up for keeps when they rocketed six goals in during the third quarter.

Stanky Denies Rumor Of Anti-Stanky Move

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky Tuesday branded as a false rumor a Milwaukee story saying anti-Stanky feeling had "grown amazingly in the last few weeks" and has spread to St. Louis Cardinal players.

The Milwaukee Sentinel, in a story over the byline of staff writer Lou Chappman, said "resentment against the little Napoleon has even hit the players' ranks. It is reported with most of the Cardinals plainly dissatisfied with his methods."

The, usually fiery Stanky seemed calm and collected when he was asked for comment on the story and obviously already had heard about it.

"We have men on this ball club," the Cardinal manager said. "My ball players are not in the habit of giving out stories without their names being used. 'Naturally, then, this is a false rumor and I do not comment on false rumors.'"

Chappman wrote that Stanky is unpopular with fans and players alike but apparently is in solid with owner August A. Busch and in no danger of being ousted.

DEATH NOT NORMAL

Traces of Drugs Found In Thorne's Vital Organs

CHICAGO (AP)—A coroner's physician said Tuesday that mail order heir Montgomery Ward Thorne "did not die by normal means" and the youth's socially prominent mother vowed to "spend every dime I have to find out what really happened."

Dr. Harry Leon, coroner's physician who made a chemical examination of young Thorne's vital organs, said traces of poisonous wood alcohol, morphine and barbiturates were found.

"It's a suspicious case," he said. "He did not die by normal means."

Thorne, who was to inherit nearly $2,000,000 from his late father's estate, was found dead in his tiny $75-a-month room June 19—10 days after he revised his will.

Sugar Blamed For Polio Outbreaks

Theory Advanced By Nutritionist

High polio incidence in North America during summer months is due to large scale consumption of sugar foods, in the opinion is Martin Pretorius, nutritionist, who addressed the Victoria North Kiwanis Club Tuesday night in Monterey restaurant.

Pretorius, whose home is California, recently was in the city to present a series of nutrition lectures.

Polio virus, he said, apparently takes advantage of the human system's unbalanced blood sugar level apt to occur during summer, and outbreaks of the disease become widespread.

The speaker said he based his statement on findings of an American researcher, who found that normal sugar blood in the system drops suddenly, then rises after a period of several hours when an active person indulges freely in such carbohydrate foods as candy, ice cream and soft drinks.

The susceptible period is during the time sugar blood level is low, some researchers think.

Pretorius thinks part of the reason for this is that refined sugar is used almost exclusively in the manufacture of confections.

NATURAL FOOD BEST

As a nutritionist, Pretorius believes that only foods in their natural forms are best suited for human consumption. He illustrated this with a comparison between civilized and primitive eating habits, where primitive men are less affected by disease.

Findings of the American doctor were proven in Nashville, Tenn. in 1948, Pretorius stated. There, a polio epidemic was arrested by a timely campaign headed by persons using the doctor's findings to prescribe a low carbohydrate diet for citizens.

Polio myelitis is practically unknown in countries where there is little consumption of refined sugar, he claimed.

Soviet Calls on UN To Halt Atomic Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia called on the United Nations Tuesday night to order the United States to halt H-bomb and A-bomb tests in Pacific island trusteeship areas.

The Russians deposited a draft resolution with the UN trusteeship council's standing committee on petitions, charging that the bomb tests were a violation of the U.S. trusteeship agreement with the UN.

Thomson Will Case Used as Writing Test

The intricacies of handwriting and forgery were discussed at the Kiwanis weekly luncheon Tuesday.

Henry B. McLean, a Vancouver handwriting expert and originator of the "McLean Method of Writing," taught in B.C. schools, was speaking on the subject, "The Thomson Million Dollar Will Case."

Mr. McLean outlined the history of the case which was in the news for many months as a result of the death of wealthy Vancouver hotelman James Thomson, and told of how Thomson had always been planning a will, but hadn't made one before his death.

"He (Thomson) had told his employees he would remember them in his will," Mr. McLean told Kiwanians.

"When he died, however, there was no will, and the courts instituted a search for relatives. Two cousins were found, both Vancouverites, but one had died shortly after Thomson, leaving behind a large family.

FOUND AFTER DEATH

"Eleven months after Thomson's death, a man approached the firm of the late Charles E. Smith, a real estate broker and notary public, asking if he had a will of Thomson's in his possession. None could be found. Repeated visits by the man, and later by a Vancouver lawyer and the court registrar turned up a will. It was found among a number of old, valueless documents.

"According to this will," said Mr. McLean, "a lot of people who had been promised bequests, were ignored. It made no provision for charities catering to elderly people, a point Thomson had repeatedly mentioned when talking about wills.

"Finally, a Vancouver lawyer decided to test the will in court, and that is where I, as a handwriting expert, came into the case.

"By enlarging known genuine copies of Thomson's and the will's witnesses' handwriting, and comparing them with the signatures on the alleged will, I was able to show the court differences in writing characteristics.

"These were so outstanding that the court decided all three signatures were forged.

"Later, an appeal court decided that at least one name was forged, confirming partially the decision of the lower Vancouver court, and nullifying the will.

Mr. McLean used a series of slides of copies of the will and the writing to illustrate the differences between genuine signatures and the forgeries.

B.C.'s Farm Income Up by Over 10%

Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd said Tuesday B.C. farmers income climbed 10.3 per cent above 1953 figures in the first quarter of this year.

They realized $22,386,000 from the sale of farm products in the first three months of the year, with greater returns noted in wheat, rye, poultry, dairy products and eggs.

Returns for vegetables and other field crops dropped slightly during the period.

Mr. Chetwynd said also that retail sales dropped 5 per cent in the province during the month of April, compared with April, 1953. Heaviest declines were shown by motor vehicle dealers, men's and women's clothing stores, down 5 and 6 per cent respectively; furniture stores down 5 per cent, and appliance and radio dealers down 18 per cent.

Department stores, however, show a 10.7 per cent increase for April, while preliminary figures for May indicate department store sales at 8.8 per cent higher than that month of 1953. For the first week of June, department store sales were 29.7 per cent above the corresponding period of 1953.

Construction contracts are down 35 per cent below last year's level for the five-month period.

What a Wonderful Way To Spend an Evening....!

in a Fairyland of Flowers and Fragrances... nestled in the sheltering hills of Tod Inlet, Enchanting Music starting at 8.15 and played right through into the dramatic night lighting. If rained out, concert will be held on the following Sunday at 2.30 p.m. Guest artist, John Dunbar.

IT'LL BE FUN... Again this year the keynote is informality, so wear comfortable summer clothes or even blue jeans. Come early if you like... load up your car with your friends and family... bring your supper and make it a picnic. Coffee and confections will be available. Take a rug or camp chair, sprawl out on the lawns and thoroughly enjoy yourself. A new band shell... perfected sound reproduction... parking facilities twice the size... greatly enlarged restroom facilities, etc... all add up to a perfect evening.

NOTE: Since Mr. Butchart passed away the Gardens have had to pay their own way, and to keep them at their loveliest it became necessary over the past few years to make an admission charge of one dollar for adults and twenty-five cents for children. We know you'll understand, but here's good news...

CHADWICK CALENDAR GROWS LIKE TOPSY

Parties, Speeches, Swim Stunts Make Our Flo Real Busy Gal

There hardly will be enough days on the social calendar for swimmer Florence Chadwick while she is in training for the $10,000 Bapco-Times swim.

As well as swimming from three to four hours daily, Miss Chadwick is engaged in a social whirl that would leave most people giddy.

The latest invitation accepted by the world's foremost woman long-distance swimmer is an appearance at the opening of Victoria's Showboat, The floating theatre will stage its first presentation in Inner Harbor, July 16, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Chadwick will be guest-of-honor.

This afternoon Miss Chadwick was attending a Government House garden party. On Thursday, she will speak at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Gyro Clubs at Empress Hotel.

Then on Friday night, Miss Chadwick will toast winners and exchange swimming stories with members of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at their annual beach party. Club members and guests will gather at Willows Beach at 7 p.m.

Miss Chadwick will be the guest of honor of the Victoria Ytees at Athletic Park in a Flo Chadwick night, some time in the middle of the month. Date of the baseball appearance will depend on the second-half schedule of the Western International League.

Miss Chadwick will feel right at home on July 17, when she officially opens a kiddies' wading pool in Esquimalt.

The pool, built by the Esquimalt Lions Club for the youngsters of the community, is situated in Memorial Park, opposite the Municipal Hall.

Miss Chadwick will officiate in the tape-cutting ceremony and will have a guard of honor composed of members of the Victoria Drill Team. Youngsters will stage a kiddies' bathing parade in Miss Chadwick's honor.

On hand for the event will be Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, Mayor Ivor Smith of Port Angeles, who is president of the Port Angeles Lions Club; Esquimalt parks chairman Gerry Salmon, and Esquimalt Lions president Don MacLeod.

On Tuesday, Miss Chadwick was visited by Vancouver boxing promoter Micky McGuire, who hoped she could appear at a fight between Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls and South American heavyweight champion Edgardo Romero in Callister Park, Vancouver, July 22.

However, as Miss Chadwick's training program will prevent her from leaving Victoria for public appearances, McGuire expressed the hope that he might be able to bring Walls to Victoria to meet Miss Chadwick.

'Showboat' Offers $800 Yukon Trip

First prize in a competition to finance Victoria's showboat for the Inner Harbor will be an $800 all-expense eight-day trip for the winner and his wife to the Yukon and return.

In addition, there will be four other travel prizes valued at $50 each.

The showboat, which will be anchored in the Inner Harbor facing the Legislative Buildings today, starts operations the night of July 16 and will continue a 45-minute daily presentation of choruses and musical numbers each evening until the end of August.

Still to be done is work on the showboat superstructure to make it look like an old-fashioned sternwheeler. This starts Monday.

Finest meeting of the entertainment group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce was scheduled today to decide exactly what programs will be presented, and to work out final arrangements for the financing.

Tickets for the competition, which likely will consist of some type of guessing of numbers, have already been printed. The committee has already approached the city with a request that $1,000 be made available to the showboat, pointing out that its tourist attraction value would be heavy.

Lucky winner of the $800 trip will fly from Vancouver to Whitehorse, and by sternwheeler down the Yukon river to Dawson, and then fly home. Cramped into the trip will be visits to historic sites and general sightseeing.

Decision whether glassworkers of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers will take strike action in their current dispute for a new contract will be announced following a meeting Thursday night. Don Bushnell, business agent of the Victoria local, reported today. The glassworkers earlier rejected a conciliation board recommendation of a five-cent hourly pay increase. They are seeking a 20-cent hourly pay increase.

Victoria weatherman Bill Mackle described the localized tornado as a "complete freak." "We just don't have those things here," he said. He explained that tornadoes are caused by "extensive instability" in the air.

Conditions over the Pacific are unusual for this season, he added. "The Pacific weather map looks exactly like winter," he said. Winds up to 20 miles-an-hour were recorded in the Gulf of Alaska Tuesday.

The Pacific storm, has brushed by Victoria.

Delay Feared In Lansdowne School Opening

Carpenters' Holiday To Halt Progress

City building industries' annual one-week holiday in August may add a fortnight or more to the school vacation of children assigned to the new Lansdowne Junior High School.

Although it seems certain the school won't be ready September 7, school board officials don't anticipate any serious delay beyond that date.

Nor do they foresee need for major changes in present plans for re-assignment of children to the Lansdowne school.

Construction men have been racing the calendar to complete the new school by September 7, when the fall term begins.

But they've fallen behind schedule. And next month all work on the job will stop for a week when, according to annual arrangement, all city builders give their crews a week's holiday.

Classrooms are farther advanced than some other parts of the building, a school board official said.

Even if the building's completion was delayed, classes could still begin about the middle of September, although the gymnasium and some of the special rooms would not be ready until later.

He said it was not envisioned that delay would be "more than a week or two and that plans had not been made to farm out Lansdowne students to other schools pending the opening.

Some 50 workmen are now engaged on the project. "We really won't know for certain when the building will be ready until about the middle of August," one official said.

But on the site, workers are not so optimistic. They hint it might be October before the workmen leave the job.

Heavier Fine Sought in Police Assault

Victoria Police Commission decided today to appeal the case of Edward and Wayne Robertson, fined in police court recently, for assaulting a policeman.

Commissioner W. J. Hamilton said a $75 fine levied against Edward for assault and a $25 fine against his brother Wayne for obstructing, acted as small protection for city policemen.

In the case involved, the policeman (Sgt. Jack Mason) apparently was held by one brother and attacked by the other," the commissioner said. "The resulting fine seems to be too small. Our men have very little protection if a man is able to attack a constable and then pay a mere $75 fine," he stated.

CURLING RESULTS

Today's early results in the Victoria Curling Club first annual summer bonspiel at the club's Quadra Street rink follow:

PIPER, DANCERS READY FOR HIGHLAND GAMES

Entries from six cities have been received to date for the 17th annual Highland Games, to be held at Royal Athletic Park July 17.

Cities to be represented are: San Francisco, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Victoria and Vancouver. Two pipe bands are expected from Seattle, and also bands of the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver; the 16th Scottish Pipe Band and the Greater Victoria Schools Pipe Band.

An exceptionally heavy entry is expected in the dancing and piping events for Pacific International honors.

Ian Duncan, president of the Victoria Highland Games Association, told a meeting Tuesday night that all arrangements have been completed.

Saanich Rejects Overhead Cable

Planners Want BCE To Bury New Line

A battle is looming in Saanich over a B.C. Electric Company plan to erect overhead transmission lines through residential areas to a proposed sub-station on Shelbourne Street.

The company's power project is to provide additional electric power to residents of the Gordon Head and Ten Mile Point districts.

It was learned today Saanich Town Planning Commission for a second time has said "no" to a B.C. Electric Co. application to erect overhead power lines in the municipality.

The massive power lines would zig-zag through the municipality for four and one-half miles taking up 175 feet right-of-way, the commission pointed out. Hundreds of homes would be affected which would result in the loss of assessments to the municipality.

The commission reiterated a recommendation that the power lines be laid underground.

The commission first opposed the company's application to erect power lines and a sub-station on Ophir Street in the Cedar Hill district last month. The sub-station site was finally abandoned in the face of widespread protests from residents in the district.

The company re-applied to Saanich council to erect a sub-station on Shelbourne Street and to carry out its original project of erecting overhead transmission lines. The matter was again submitted to the commission for consideration.

Entire Municipality Seen Affected

The commission in its second report said it regarded the power line project as a "test case." It feels if the present project is allowed to proceed, other similar power lines will be erected in the municipality affecting hundreds of additional homes.

B.C. Electric officials have confirmed that other similar power projects are proposed in the municipality in the future.

Erection of overhead lines in Saanich, commission chairman K. R. Genn warned, will result in the loss of assessments in the municipality.

"It will affect the entire municipality," he said. "When people wake up to what it will mean they will get a shock."

He said he did not see any reason why Saanich should stand for such a project.

In its report, the commission raised no objection to the erection of a sub-station on Shelbourne Street near Saanich fire hall, but it pointed out that the transmission lines to the site is a far greater problem from a planning point of view than the actual site itself.

The overhead power lines would "sterilize" hundreds of acres for all time and the value of the land and improvements adjacent to the right-of-way, would decrease in value, it said.

The commission said that while the cost of underground lines would be considerably higher than the cost of overhead lines, the cost could be spread over all consumers of power instead of Saanich residents who would suffer through the loss of assessments.

"It is our conviction that the council should present alternatives to the public Utilities Commission before permission is granted for re-zoning," the commission said.

The exact route of the transmission line has not yet been disclosed, but it is understood it will start from Gordon sub-station on Interurban Road in West Saanich. From there it would zig-zag passing south of Mount Douglas.

The plan is to have two power lines running parallel and situated 70 feet apart. The cables would be strung on thick double wooden poles placed side-by-side and about 14 feet apart. The cables would carry about 132,000 volts.

30-Boat Fleet Set for Cruise To Bellingham

About 30 vessels from the Capital City Yacht Club will be sailed to Bellingham on the week-end, where the 100 club members taking part in the outing will be guests of the Bellingham Boat Owners' Association.

Plans call for the cruisers to leave the club's Canoe Cove moorings Friday, and to rendezvous Friday evening at Fort San Juan, Soucia Island.

They will leave early Saturday morning, and at the entrance to Bellingham Bay will form up to sail in line ahead to the Bellingham club's moorings, led by Commodore Ken Oliver. Arrival time is set for 8 a.m. PST.

Cars will be provided Saturday to take visitors on drives and shopping trips, and a dance will be held Saturday night.

The Canadian party will leave Bellingham Sunday to return to Canoe Cove via the San Juan Islands.

New Police Car Bought by City

Victoria Police Commission today accepted a tender from J. M. Wood Motors for a new Dodge police car priced at $1,837. A tender from Gordon Campbell of Vancouver for supplying of new uniforms for the police force also was accepted.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Is Devil's Island still in operation in French Guiana, located at the northern part of South America? 2. Is that the only place called Devil's Island? —A.L.

A.—1. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says: "Devil's Island, a small island in the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of French Guiana, South America, formerly used by the French as a penal settlement because of the difficulty of escape." The World Almanac gives the date of the closing out: "In 1944 France ordered the famous penal colony, Devil's Island, to be liquidated and its 2,800 inmates repatriated." 2. Available works of reference do not disclose the name of any other island in the world important enough to be listed in standard gazetteers.

Q.—What is the elevation of each of Canada's two large northern lakes, Great Bear and Great Slave?—H.T.A.

A.—The elevation of Great Bear Lake is 391 feet; Great Slave, 495 feet.

The B.C. Automobile Association has raised an objection or two to the new ghost cars being employed by the RCMP on our provincial highways.

I hope and trust the RCMP will have the good sense to pay no attention whatsoever to any objections which might be raised against ghost cars.

If ghost cars are needed to prevent citizens from committing mayhem, suicide, and murder on the highways, then by all means, use ghost cars.

The laws governing traffic were devised in an effort to protect life and limb.

For your summer reading pleasure, I recommend the advertisements for Butchart Gardens.

They are full of varied literary gems, and give you your choice of many comments.

Here are a couple of examples to whet your interest.

"For the symphony concert the Butcharts are going to allow you to come early—bring your supper and picnic anywhere in the gardens. That's right—come right from work—load up your car, bring a rug and camp-chair and a basket supper. What a wonderful way to spend an evening! Bring sandwiches to eat during the intermission."

Surely they aren't implying that Hans Gruber's music is strictly from hunger?

I also like this brief extract: "Convenient parking lot... free use of sunshades... anchorage for the yachtman and seats placed conveniently throughout the gardens."

Drop anchor in the third goldfish pond from the left, skipper.

New Crinkle Cottons
Need No Ironing . . .

By PENNY SAVER

Aren't we lazy folk? Seems like everything we buy nowadays has to be designed to save time and effort. If it doesn't, then we don't buy it.

And the latest cotton skirts are not exceptions. Every one's buying them. Know why? Simply because they require no ironing!

They are pretty things. If you're going to the United States on holiday then you'll see them everywhere. The selections are great.

However, I'm happy to announce that the skirts have invaded Canada, and girls here are taking to them with enthusiasm.

The cotton, I would say, is "rippled." Not like seersucker, which is bubbled, but in vertical lines. When you wash a skirt of this type, you may hang it up dripping wet as you would a nylon blouse.

There is a way to keep it as new looking and well-creased as it was the day you bought it.

Take an old nylon stocking and cut out the toe. Then slip the wet skirt inside the stocking and hang to dry.

I saw one of the skirts today, selling at $3.98. It was in three tiers, brown, chartreuse and orange . . . gay and summery.

Flower of the month is the water lily. Why not give a cup and saucer decorated with this flower to a friend who celebrates her birthday this month? You can buy it in bone china for $1.85.

In fact, there is a set of 12 cups and saucers . . . one for every month of the year, right from the January snowdrop to the December holly. Why not start a collection and keep adding to it until you have a complete set?

Symphony Garden Fete
Again at Arlow Farm

Final arrangements for the third annual garden party were made by members of the women's committee of Victoria Symphony Society, in meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward Goodall.

The garden party, at "Arlow Farm," the home of Capt. and Mrs. Massy Gooden, Sayward Road, Saanich, will take place on Wednesday, July 28, from 2 to 6 p.m.

Tea conveners are Mrs. H. Gilliland and Mrs. G. A. R. Stelck; transportation, Mrs. Sparks; handicrafts, Mrs. C. Mellis Mair, Miss Audrey Miller and Mrs. Ralph Dowling; fish pond and flower stall, Miss Enid Webster and Mrs. W. H. Warren; home cooking, Mrs. D. Dann, Miss Mairanne Fraser and Mrs. C. E. W. LeFebvre; market stall, Mrs. H. K. Burnett; candy, Mrs. Ethel Bishop; tombola, Mrs. E. A. Walls, Mrs. W. Erb and Mrs. J. N. Edmond; recordings and books, Mrs. A.

Laundy and Mrs. G. Lake; superfluities, Mrs. J. Gillespie and Mrs. K. Crabtree; ice cream stand, Mrs. R. Fortye.

Arrangements have been made for bingo, minute photography and tea cup readers and the famed Sussex trugs will be for sale. There will be a fashion show, suitable movies for the children and some playground equipment.

Mrs. Roxburgh presided at the meeting and introduced a new member, Mrs. Eileen Shirley.

Feeding time does not have to be taxing, even if baby is a very slow eater. You can make it a time of real relaxation for yourself. You might make a cup of tea and take a sip between spoonfuls. Your eating may help to stimulate his interest in food. Whatever you do, don't stuff him. You might build up a resistance pattern which he'll never outgrow.

Convalescent Finds
Her Home Depressing

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a person is in poor health, one of the best morale builders is a cheerful place to be. A woman writes:

(Q)—"My sister and her husband moved to a new house nearly a year ago. Shortly after they moved my sister had to go to the hospital for an operation. She came to my home for several weeks after she left the hospital, but is now back in her own home. She gets depressed being in a house that is not fixed up and hasn't even curtains at the window. She is embarrassed about having the neighbors think she is a poor housekeeper."

"Her husband keeps telling her he will fix up the house when he comes home from work, but he never does. He has two jobs and when he comes home he just sits in front of the television. I am worried about my sister because she seems so depressed. What do you advise?"

(A)—Step in and help your sister. You and she really cannot expect her husband to do much for the home. With two jobs, it is not surprising that he comes home tired.

After an operation, your sister may not be able to afford new decorations for the home. However, there must be old curtains that can be fixed up to look well enough to pass for the present, and all slip covers can be brightened and freshened up by washing.

In addition to doing these things for your sister, you might try painting cracked windowsills and doing other easy touch-up jobs which do wonders to improve the looks of a home. Even if your sister cannot afford this, you might be able to pay the slight costs involved.

When a person is recovering from an illness, good morale is more important than medicine. Anything that lowers a person's morale will retard recovery. In your sister's case, her home is the stumbling block to her recovery, and that is why it is important to fix it up now.

Annie Maude Betts, Terry C. Ridley Wed in St. John's Anglican Church

A ballerina-length wedding gown of lace and nylon net was worn, Saturday evening, by Miss Annie Maude Betts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Betts, Happy Valley Road, when she repeated vows with Terry Charles Ridley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Ridley, Anchorage Avenue, Colwood.

Canon George Biddle read the service in St. John's Anglican Church, which was decorated with mixed summer flowers for the occasion. As the register was being signed, Miss Lois Burns sang "The Twenty-Third Psalm." The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Bodice of the bridal gown was fashioned of lace and from it flared a bouffant skirt of nylon net. The bride's shoulders were covered by a plain nylon net bolero and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations. She wore a shoulder-length wedding veil.

Maid of honor, Miss Jean Pettitt, was gown in iridescent taffeta of turquoise and mauve with overskirt of blue net. She wore a bolero of matching taffeta, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations and wore a matching floral hair bandeau.

Mrs. Inez Ridley was brides-matron, wearing a gown of mauve nylon net with bodice of deeper mauve velvet. She had a net bolero to match her skirt and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white carnations and wore a matching hair bandeau.

Brother of the groom, Bert Ridley, was best man. Ushers were Doug Betts, brother of the bride, and Dennis Ridley, brother of the groom.

At a reception in the Business and Professional Women's Clubroom, Reg Porter proposed the toast to the bride. Pink candles flanked the three-tier wedding cake and red and white roses decorated the room. The couple stood beneath an archway of yellow and mauve to receive their guests.

Parents of the couple greeted guests at the door. Mother of the bride wore a powder blue dress with white accessories and red gladioli, en corsage. Mother of the groom chose a turquoise bengaline dress with white accessories and similar corsage.

Honeymoon is being spent motoring in the United States.

For traveling Mrs. Ridley donned a navy skirt, white and navy shortie coat, white accessories and red roses, en corsage. The couple will live on Metchosis Road, Colwood.

Vestry Scene Of Wedding

Vestry of First United Church was scene of a quiet wedding, Saturday afternoon, when Dr. W. G. Wilson united in marriage Agnes Sarah Earl, daughter of Mrs. Maud Hall, Victoria, and Kristian Mollgard, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. Mollgard of Denmark. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a navy two-piece dress of silk bengaline, navy and white hat, and white accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Frank Howland attended her sister, as matron of honor, in a beige silk two-piece dress with pink hat and accessories. Best man was Frank Howland. Mrs. Hall, mother of the bride, wearing a navy and grey ensemble, assisted the couple in receiving guests at a reception, held in the home of the bride's sister, Ocean View Road. Miss Joan Mollgard presided at the tea urn.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Bill Blauw. Following a honeymoon in Banff and Calgary, the couple will return to live in Victoria.

BY BILL PARKER
CBC Wednesday Night will feature a repeat performance tonight of "The Trial of Lord Byron," an imaginary trial which brings to light
as nearly as possible the character of Lord Byron.
Written by Lawrence Kitchin, the mock trial presents various people to speak for and against him. His wife, his daughter, Thomas Moore, Leigh Hunt, and others of his period are brought into the picture, each revealing a different facet of Byron's life and personalities.
(These program listings are as supplied by the stations themselves and the Times is not responsible for last minute changes or other alterations.) Pacific Daylight Time.

Stuck 3 Days In Mud Man Pulled Free

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 200-pound man was rescued today from the muddy bed of Beargrass Creek, where he had been stuck for three days following a 40-foot fall from a railroad bridge. The man identified himself as Levi Edward Black, 39, of Louisville. He was suffering from shock and a possible fractured right leg.

Symphony Holds Rehearsal in New Bandshell

Stereophonic Sound To Feature Concerts

The Victoria Symphony Orchestra held a rehearsal Tuesday night in the new bandshell in Butchart Gardens in preparation for a series of four Thursday night concerts in the gardens, starting July 8, at 8:15 p.m.

Acoustics were tested and final adjustments made on new stereophonic sound equipment which will carry music evenly throughout the garden's concert area.

Concerts will be held under floodlighting. Should they be rained out, concerts will be held the following Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Program for the concert this Thursday, conducted by Hans Gruber, will include Rossini's overture to "Cinderella," Tchaikowski's "Waltz of the Flowers," the ballet suite from Grieg's "Cephalus et Procris," Haydn's Symphony No. 88 in G Major, and Liszt's "Les Preludes."

John Dunbar, popular Victoria baritone, will sing two arias and probably some of his well-known Scottish ballads.

GUN WAS HIS TICKET

Pilot Shoots Boy Airplane 'Pirate'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Raymond Kuchenmeister, who was only 15 but weighed 260 and wanted to be "treated like a man," was shot to death Tuesday by the pilot of an American Airlines plane he tried to commandeer with an empty gun. He wanted to go West and get a job.

"This is my ticket," the five-foot 11-inch, tall youth told the man at the gate of the Cleveland airport as he showed a .38-calibre revolver.

At the plane's loading ladder he brushed past a stewardess, asking where the captain was and telling her to "leave the door open for my brother."

None of the 58 passengers on the flight from New York to Mexico City made any move to interfere as the boy entered the pilot's compartment. Few knew anything was amiss while Raymond pointed his weapon at the crew and ordered them to fly him to Mexico.

Capt. William F. Bonnell of Cleveland grabbed a revolver from his flight kit and fired twice, hitting the boy in the left chest and hip.

Raymond died in hospital a few minutes before the airliner, an hour late, flew on to St. Louis with Bonnell still in command.

During a brief stopover at St. Louis, Bonnell, 46, told reporters he didn't know what else he could do.

"I had a maniac on my plane. We had women and children..."

Summer Storm Creates Havoc On Prairies

REGINA (CP) — A savage summer storm laced with brilliant lightning flashes moved out of Saskatchewan Tuesday, leaving a broken trail through southeastern areas.

The disturbance pushed in from the west Monday night and erupted just east of Regina. It uprooted trees, smashed power transformers and disrupted telephone and telegraph lines.

Heavy rains flooded streets in many communities. Some still were without power or communications Tuesday.

At Ceylon, 50 miles south of Regina, a 20-minute hailstorm dented car bodies and killed poultry. Hundreds of panes of glass were broken.

Underground Parking Studied for London

LONDON (CP) — The transport ministry is studying a special report on the advisability of building underground parking garages beneath central London squares. The project is estimated to cost more than £3,000,000.

Jury Members Sue Province For Damages

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province said Tuesday in a newspaper story that eight of the 12 jurors at the recent William Wakefield Gash murder trial have started suit for libel damages against the newspaper.

The jurors claim in a statement of claim filed in the British Columbia Supreme Court that they were libelled by an article published in the Province March 20 under the by-line of columnist Eric Nicol.

The article, a plea against use of capital punishment, resulted in the Province being fined $2,500 and Mr. Nicol $250 in contempt of court proceedings. The fines were levied April 22.

Gash, found guilty of the murder of Frank Pitsch, a golf shagger, was sentenced to be hanged June 22 but the sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

Producer Who Filmed Shaw Plays Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — British film producer Gabriel Pascal, 60, the only movie man the late George Bernard Shaw would trust to film his plays, died Tuesday.

Pascal, a European movie director, was broke when in 1936 he persuaded the Irish playwright to let him make "Pygmalion."

Shaw was so impressed by the result that he entrusted Pascal to film such other plays as "Major Barbara," "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Androcles and the Lion."

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!
As usual, my alarm clock pulled me out of bed at 7 sharp Tuesday morning. I jumped out of bed and hurried to the window, as I always do. I was delighted to see that Cabbro Bay was just as flat as a millstream, although it didn't look quite that warm.

Mom Chadwick was bustling around the kitchen while I dressed and I could smell wonderful things cooking. I took my daily cold tablets (just an ounce of prevention) and stuck my head out the bedroom window for a couple of sniffs of that wonderful salt-water air. My bedroom overlooks the bay and the view at night, with the moonlight streaming over the water, is the perfect way to end a day.

About 8, Mom and I sat down to a breakfast fit for a French toast, just swimming in butter and honey, and a couple of cups of Mom's hot tea. I never drink coffee. Mom would disown me if she ever saw me drinking any and she's still the boss as far as I am concerned.

After breakfast I climbed on the scales and was pleased to see I am holding my own as far as weight is concerned. However, Mom, who eats the same meals that I do but misses out on the swimming, is becoming a little worried about her waist line. On well, pretty soon she'll start worrying about me and lose it all again. When I start swimming 10 and 12 miles a day, she walks twice that distance in the living room, just worrying about me.

After reading the mail and trying to answer some of it, I received a pleasant visit from a Vancouver sports writer and a Vancouver boxing promoter, a very gentlemanly fellow named Micky McGuire.

He wanted me to appear in a fight card (just as a guest, not as a main event) that he is promoting in Vancouver. Unfortunately I won't be able to make it but it would be quite a story to tell my boxing friends like Rocky Marciano, Max Baer and Archie Moore.

We just finished our talk when Jack Todd and his family appeared in the coaching boat, so I went in for my morning dip, swimming for an hour.

I am becoming more used to the cold water every day and felt fine when I came out of the bay and hopped into a hot tub. Mom had cooked up some hamburger and onions, my favorite meal, for lunch. I puttered around the house after lunch, just relaxing.

The afternoon swim, 2 1/2 hours, was the longest yet but I didn't feel at all tired when I came out. Four weeks to go now.

Coach Archie has a heart of gold! He's given me the whole day off Friday so maybe I can catch up with all my unanswered mail.

Ontario Cyclist Sets B.E.G. Trials Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pat Murphy, of Delhi, Ont., set his fourth record at the Canadian bicycle championships here today when he won the gruelling 100-kilometre road race in 2:48:25. The old mark was 2:53:29. Murphy, 23, also set records in the 4,000-metre pursuit race and the 10 and 25-mile races during the meet.

He took the marathon from the field of 29 riders in a down-to-the-wire dash with Alan Cole, of Brantford, Ont., which left the race in doubt until about a block from the finish line. He and Cole had swapped the lead several times in the latter stages of the race.

ATKINSON HURT
Lorne Atkinson, veteran Canadian bicycle racer, was taken to hospital here "badly cut up" following a four-bike collision in the fourth lap of the 100-kilometre road race. Atkinson was involved in a collision with Bill Kasting and Mickey Zayetz, both of Edmonton, and Brian Henderson of Vancouver. The other three continued the race.

Behind the leaders came Pete Allan of Toronto; Wilfred Chevrier of Montreal; Dave Smith, Toronto; Eric Fellows, Toronto; Malcolm Potts, Victoria; Claire Bonner, Vancouver; Gaston Langlois, Montreal; Sandy Peden, Victoria; Jim Pascoe, Toronto. Six of the 15 that were forced out dropped in the last two laps as the leaders turned on a heart-tearing pace.

Three-Gun Gertrude

A triple national title winner in U.S. pistol competition last Sunday, Mrs. Gertrude Backstrom of Hoquiam, Wash., is in Victoria to compete in the annual international pistol competition sponsored by Victoria City Police Revolver Club. There are 50 entries, including 13 from Washington and Oregon, a Vancouver team, and one from Vancouver. Two-day tourney opened today at Thetis Lake. Mrs. Backstrom holds the U.S. women's title for aggregate scores with three handguns, .22, .38 and .45 calibres. (Times photo.)

Serious Trouble Ahead If Rain, Heat Swell B.C. Rivers

Deputy Minister Evan Jones Inspects 'Soup-Like' Dikes on Fraser River

The Fraser Valley will be in serious trouble if hot weather or rain hits B.C. coastal areas the remainder of this week, deputy works minister Evan Jones warned today as the Fraser crept above 1948 flood levels.

Military units throughout the province were alerted and ordered to stand by as the Fraser gained 3 1/2 inches in the last 24 hours. Normal reading for this time of year is 14 feet.

This morning Public Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi ordered an immediate survey of rain saturated Fraser Valley dikes as flood-watchers warned of possible momentary seepage.

The rising river has been running at high levels for the past two months and reached a dangerous high of 20 1/2 feet at the vital Mission bridge gauge this morning.

WEEK-END CRITICAL
Diking Commissioner J. MacDonald ordered a 24-hour dike patrol in the face of the latest threat, and deputy works minister Evan Jones warned that Sunday or Monday "will tell the tale."

"If we have hot weather or heavy rain this week, we will be in serious trouble," said Mr. Jones. He will start a thorough inspection of the dikes tomorrow morning.

Mr. Jones said the danger is not overlapping of the dikes by the Fraser, but the even greater danger of the dikes crumbling or allowing water to seep through their banks.

LIKE SOUP
"The dikes are almost like soup," he said, "and we will have to maintain a constant patrol on them."

"The height of the water does not bother us, it is the potential danger of water seeping through them."

Mr. Jones added that the danger will not end with ebbing of the murky flood-level waters. "When the river starts receding, we will still be in trouble... that is when the dike trouble really starts."

He explained that receding waters will draw earth and gravel dike walls with them.

Fare Boost Board's Baby

'Leave It to the Commission' Reaction of Civic Leaders

Civic and municipal leaders expressed little surprise today at B.C. Electric's application for an increase in bus fares.

There was no indication of any organized protest, but rather a willingness to let the merits of the company's case be determined by the Public Utilities Commission.

B.C. Electric announced Tuesday afternoon its intention to ask for higher bus fares for both its mainland and Vancouver Island transportation systems.

In Victoria it is asking that the present 10-cent fare be boosted to 13.

Though some claimed the increase would work a hardship, the general attitude was that the price rise was the natural way to meet mounting deficits.

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay; Reeve Joseph Casey of Saanich and Reeve A. C. Wurtel of Esquimalt, were in general agreement that the Public Utilities Commission was the proper authority to investigate and decide on the company's request. All three said municipal councils had no facilities for probing into the financial aspects of the case.

VARYING VIEWS:
City aldermen showed varying views. Here are some of their comments:

Ald. Margaret Christie: "I think the fares are high enough. I don't think the people can really afford to pay more, especially the older people living on fixed incomes who have to use the buses because they can't walk."

Ald. Arthur Dowell: "As far as I'm concerned the application for an increase was anticipated when the men got that last increase. A company can't continue to lose money. It either has to close down or pass it on. Whether the company is justified in asking for this much will be up to the Public Utilities Commission to determine. I will suggest the city be represented at the PUC hearings. I can't see that we can do much more. With respect to the suggestion that the city take over the business, I hope that never happens."

Ald. Millard Mooney: "The cost of business is leveling off and things are going to be tougher. I will oppose this increase. Fares are high enough now. The price of anything that costs the public money has to be kept down. We've got to hold the line. That's been my policy and still is. People won't be able to ride on the buses if the fare goes up."

Ald. Frank Mulliner: said the company was compelled to make the application for higher fares to offset wage increases won by its employees. At the same time, he took the company to task for giving wage increases "apparently without very much resistance."

"They've not been trying to hold the line," he said. "They've just said 'yes, yes, yes.' They've made no stand. They've apparently decided to just pass the cross along. If they don't hold the line, we're going to have inevitable chaos."

Ald. Robert Macmillan: "Nobody likes an increase, but I would rather see an increase in fares than have the gas and electric services subsidize the transportation service any more. We're already paying too much for gas and electricity in order to keep the transportation system going. And I'm dead set against it."

President Unalterably Opposed

Statement Clarifies American Position

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower said today he is completely and unalterably opposed to the admission of Communist China to the United Nations under present conditions.

He made this statement at his weekly press conference in which he also said he had not yet reached any decision on whether the United States should withdraw from the United Nations if the Communist Chinese regime was brought in.

The president was asked to give his views on the admission of China in view of the considerable opposition, the prospect had raised in Congress.

Eisenhower said he was completely and unalterably opposed under the present situation to the admission of Communist China to the world body.

He gave his personal opinion that 95 per cent of the people of the United States took the same stand.

MORAL QUESTION

The president said there was a moral question involved. The United Nations was not established primarily as a super government, he said, but it was an attempt to marshal the moral strength of the world to preserve peace and make certain that quarrels were composed through decent respect for justice, fairness and right.

Now today, the president said, Communist China had entered into negotiations at Geneva but instead of taking a conciliatory attitude it was demanding the repudiation of the United Nations' position.

Eisenhower said emphatically that Communist China was today at war with the United Nations; they had been declared aggressors by the United Nations General Assembly and that situation had never been changed.

In such situations the United States government could not possibly agree to the admission of the Communist Chinese to the United Nations.

A reporter asked if the United States would withdraw from the United Nations if the Chinese were admitted.

MUCH STUDY

Eisenhower said the United States had gone into the United Nations under treaty forms and if the country ever reached the point where it wanted to repudiate solemn treaty obligations it must do so only after the most careful and deliberate study of all the consequences.

The president was asked if he opposed any amendment to the foreign aid bill or other legislation which would automatically take the United States out of the United Nations once Communist China became a member.

He replied that the United States ought not to prejudice cases and should deal with problems as they arose.

He doubted if any such amendment to the foreign aid bill would be seriously considered.

EVERY WEAPON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said today he is convinced the Eisenhower administration will use every weapon at its command to keep Communist China out of the United Nations.

But the administration would not claim a combination backing—at least for the present—for his demand that the United States pull out of the UN if Red China is seated. An effort to bring the Peiping regime into the world organization may be made this fall.

BRITISH REACTION MOUNTS

First U.K. Abstention On Chiang Shows Split

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Britain today split with the United States on a vote supporting Nationalist China's participation in the United Nations.

The 12-nation trusteeship council voted, however, 9 to 3 with Britain abstaining, to approve the report of its credentials committee recognizing Nationalist China's seat in the group. Russia and India voted no.

It was the first time in a major UN body that the British had not voted for Nationalist China.

Churchill Will Report on Talks Monday

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill will make a statement Monday in the House of Commons on his Washington conference with President Eisenhower and also will report on his visit to Ottawa, Capt. Harry Crookshank, leader of the House, announced today.

Churchill plunged back into the current of British politics with a full-scale cabinet meeting.

Churchill underlined the importance of today's meeting by calling in the chiefs of the armed services and the three government service ministers.

Ike No Longer Speaks for U.S. Says Guardian

MANCHESTER (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says today that President Eisenhower's thinking now is being obscured and that Republican leaders in the United States Congress have almost closed the door on "intelligent policies either in Europe or in Asia."

"President Eisenhower no longer speaks for the United States," the Liberal newspaper says. "To conduct his foreign policy he must secure money and approval from Congress—and the Republican leaders in Congress are adamant against the kind of policies Sir Winston Churchill must have tried to persuade the president to accept."

If Eisenhower "accepts the view of his congressional leaders or by inaction leaves them to shape American policy, then there is little likelihood that Britain can continue to share a common policy with the United States," the paper says.

"The divergence opens appalling possibilities—among them the dissolution of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—but it has to be faced."

'Would Be Folly' to Admit Red China to U.N.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Express today declared "it would be folly" to admit Communist China to the United Nations.

"Already the United Nations organization has provided a magnificent platform for the Russians," it asserted.

"They have made full use of it, to bamboozle the public, divide the democratic states, stirring up distrust and even hatred among them and blunting the purpose of their leaders," The Express said.

"But if China too were represented then an immense reinforcement would be brought to the forces of disorder."

"Having suffered and endured all these injuries from the Russians," the paper asked, "can any British statesman consider doubling the mischief-making capacity of the UN by opening the door to malicious opportunity to the Chinese?"

Cease-Fire Hinges On 'Hurry-Up' Talks

Mendes-France Will Lead All-out Drive For Indo-China Peace at Geneva Next Week

GENEVA (UP)—Foreign ministers of the East and West headed back to Geneva today for a "hurry-up" session of the dormant Far Eastern conference, which may decide Indo-China's fate in the next 10 days.

Pierre Mendes-France, French premier who won his office on a pledge to obtain a cease-fire by July 20 or resign from office, will join the conference for the first time and lead the all-out drive to end the Indo-China shooting war.

Other top diplomats from both sides of the Iron Curtain either were en route back to Geneva or making their plans to arrive not later than Monday.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is scheduled to return here from Moscow late today for the crucial conference attempts to hammer out a cease-fire agreement.

Red China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai will return from Peiping Thursday.

Soviet ambassador to Britain, Jacob Malik, called upon British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London Tuesday night to discuss the new, speed-up phase of the conference, and British sources said Eden would return to Geneva this week-end.

HANOI, Indo-China (UP)—Communist troops have begun shelling Hanoi, last French-held city in the Red River Delta south of the Hanoi-Haiphong corridor, the French high command said today.

Red troops of three divisions, moving north through the abandoned southern delta, lobbed mortars into the city, 28 miles south of Hanoi, Tuesday.

Hung Yen, at the confluence of the Red River and the Bamboo Canal, already is half-encircled by the Reds, who have cut off roads to the north.

JUVENILE COURT TO BE APPROACHED

Fine Parents of Delinquents City Police Board Suggests

City Police Commission that parents are neglecting to impose proper discipline on their children, the court should impose fines on parents of juvenile delinquents.

Police Chief John Blackstock pointed out that the commission could merely recommend the matter to the court, but that it was up to the courts to make any changes in present procedure.

The mayor agreed with the chief, and quoted from the criminal code, pointing out that under the law, the courts had the right to impose fines on parents of delinquents.
